DEMOCRATS IN THREE STATES SELECT TODAY

ROOSEVELT EXPECTS TO GAIN MORE DELEGATES

New York, April 11 (AP)—Supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt here expect 80 Democratic national convention votes to fall into his column formally this week—boosting their estimate of his strength to 235, a third the number needed for nomination.

At this time in 1928 Alfred E. Smith, a receptive candidate again this year, had 241 instructed, pledged and claimed delegates.

Those directing the Roosevelt campaign pointed out, however, that their present list of 155 is extremely conservative—that no vote at all in question is included.

Other supporters of Roosevelt have placed his present strength as high as 174, not counting Kentucky.

Democrats in four states will pick 134 delegates this week—26 in Kentucky, 16 in Nebraska and 54 in Illinois, all tomorrow, and 38 in Michigan Thursday.

Michigan for Roosevelt

Kentucky's delegation was definitely assured for Roosevelt by action of county conventions last week, although the state convention will not be until tomorrow.

At Roosevelt headquarters here it was said "assurances had been received" the governor also will get all the Michigan and Nebraska votes. These with the 26 from Kentucky would make a total of 80 for the week.

"And we are not worrying about Illinois," a spokesman added.

After the Illinois delegation votes for its favorite son, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the Roosevelt forces expect to get a majority of the bloc.

The New York governor visited the new headquarters of the state committee today for the first time and was introduced to the office staff as "our next president."

He said he was glad to see "the wheels running so smoothly" and added, "no fuss and feathers, no frills, no waste of money."

Meantime, one Tammany hall spokesman labeled the activity in behalf of Roosevelt "all window-dressing" and said the few hundrew votes lined up for the governor meant nothing, that the real test of strength is still far off.

James A. Farley, chairman of the state committee, who escorted Roosevelt around his headquarters, was called "the chief window-dresser" by the Tammany spokesman.

"He travels around the country trying to stir up a big noise, but it doesn't means a thing," the Tammany official added.

Tammany claims it will control a majority of the New York state delegation. John F. Curry, leader of the organization, while refusing to voice a preference for any of the presidential aspirants, has said a unit rule will be adopted at the state convention, and that no decision about candidates will be made until a caucus in Chicago just before the national convention.

Republicans chose 110 delegates this week, bringing the total picked to 402. President Hoover has 270 of the 292 named to date. Those for selection this week are: Illinois 61, Nebraska 17 and Florida 16, all tomorrow; North Carolina 7, Thursday, and Deleware 9, Saturday.

Vandenburg Asks For Reduced Expenditures

Washington, April 11. (AP)—A plea for reduced expenditures in government to "win our way back to solvent happiness" was made tonight by Senator Vendenberg of Michigan, who said "The best politics at the moment is no politics."

"The costs of federal, state and local government must come down," the Michigan senator said. "Boom income ended some time ago. Boom out-go must submit to comparable deflation. The taxpayer is at the end of both his patience and his purse. Not even perplexing prohibition excites as much universal conversation today as does governmental economy. x x x

A National War

"The drain is devastating. It cannot go on. We must retrench and convalesce."

Pointing out that the federal contribution to the taxation burden is roughly 30 per cent, Vandenberg said in his address over the National Broadcasting system in the Washington star forum that the budget must be balanced in order to save the public credit, adding:

"This is our sheet-anchor in the storm. Only a crazy man would cut the chain."

"The need of the moment, dictated by sense and necessity, is bone deep retrenchment and impartial, unpartisan ,courageous reorganization," he said. x x x

"This is more than a skirmish. It is a war. Saving a few millions is not enough. Saving three-quarters of a billion is nearer the need and not impossible. The best politics at the moment is no politics. The best rule is courageous, consistent common sense. There is no way that Uncle Sam can get a single dollar of real money without taking it sooner or later from the pockets of his people. Any pretense to the contrary is mere moon-shine.

"Let us put first things first. There is no way to stop this exaction except by stopping expenditures. Unfortunately this hurts those who are thus penalized or deprived. Hence the resistance, but our responsibility is to the greatest good of the greatest number. The American people have a right to reduced budgets in every field of government. They should encourage this disposition upon the part of their public servants by declining to join in demanding new drafts or in opposing rational curtailments. With common and incorrigible zeals we shall win our way back to solvent happiness."

FOUR ACCUSED AS MURDERERS

Mrs. Fortescue and Navy Men Identified by Hawaiians

BY WILLIAM H. EWING
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Honolulu, April 11 (AP)—Brown fingers were leveled today from the witness chair at Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men as the prosecution began presenting evidence by which it hopes to imprison them for the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai.

Two witnesses, Edward Ulii, cousin of the victim, and George Von Arnswald, a policeman, quickly identified the four in connection with the abduction last January 8 of the young Hawaiian and in the subsequent futile dash of an automobile toward the sea with his sheet-shrouded body.

The New York and Washington society woman sat stiffly upright and obviously under strain to retain her composure as Ulii told in broken English and native Patois how Kahahawai had been lured into an automobile and whisked away.

Tells Vivid Story

Only once did a smile flit over her Patrician features. That was when Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, turned and grinned at her as she entered the court room. Her answering smile appeared forced.

John C. Kelley, Honolulu's new prosecutor, told a vivid story of the abduction and slaying in his opening statement, but Darrow, keeping the prosecution in the dark as much as possible regarding his plans, reserved his statement to the mixed jury.

Always alert, the veteran Chicago lawyer twice interrupted the stories of prosecution witnesses. He questioned them closely as to whether Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, a co-defendant, made any remark when the car containing Kahahawai's

(By The Associated Press)

The legislature reconvened Monday night.

Gov. Brucker announced he will ask legislature to provide for payment of a $1,400,000 debt to counties for care of tubercolosis patients. His recommendation will be contained in supplementary message to be submitted probably Thursday.

Governor stated he, does not propose to open way for any new taxes or other forms of revenue aside from those already introduced.

Highway committees resumed struggle with administration fund distribution measure.

Controversy over measure to require banks to insure deposits loomed as sponsor pressed house committee to release bill to floor.

Reo Motor Company Official Resigns

Lansing, April 11 (AP)—William Robert Wilson, vice president and general manager of the Reo Motor Car company, has resigned his administrative duties, Donald E. Bates, secretary-treasurer of the company, said today. The announcement said that Richard H. Scott president of the corporation for many years, has returned to active management of its affairs.

Wilson still remains a member of the organization's board of directors. Bates said the change had been made two months ago but the announcement was withheld. The first public indication of the change came in the issuance of the recent annual report of the corporation signed by Scott as president and general manager.

HOUSE PASSES BUDGET BILL

Measure Provides for Pay Reductions for State Employes

Lansing, Mich., April 11 (AP)—The budget bill, providing for graduated pay cuts for state employes receiving more than $1,200 a year, was passed by the house tonight after the adoption of amendments on the floor adding $118,600 to the total appropriations recommended by Governor Wilber M. Brucker.

The additions, representing the restoration of six individual items covered by special legislative acts to amounts voted by the last regular session, amounted to $142,000 but the new salary schedule represented a cut of $23,400 under the governor's recommendation. The salary reductions range from 10 to 25 percent.

In passing the bill, the house cut $3,574,972 from the budget appropriation as passed at the last regular session.

Only one negative vote was recorded against the bill after the house rejected an amendment to exempt from pay cuts employes receiving less than $1,500, and after the membership listened to an attack on the executive office appropriation.

Graduated Slashes

Rep. Joseph C. Armstrong, Detroit, who offered the amendment to start pay reductions above the $1,500 bracket, said the executive office appropriation "is $17,500 above the amount for that office in 1927." "Why not cut that

Jury In Waldfogel Case Is Dismissed

Detroit, April 11, (AP)—Failing to agree on a verdict, a jury which deliberated the case of Max Waldfogel, former detective lieutenant in the police blackhand squad charged with perjury, was dismissed today. Prosecuting attorneys said they would ask for a new trial at once.

Waldfogel was indicted last year on a charge of giving false testimony during a grand jury investigation of crimes in Detroit.

After a trial lasting two weeks, the case was given to the jury late Saturday.

Robert P. MacPherson, former head of the blackhand squad, also indicted on similar charges, is awaiting trial.

DEATH CLAIMS JOSEPH LEITER

Famous Capitalist and Horse Fancier Succumbs at Age 63

Chicago, April 11. (AP)—Joseph Leiter, capitalist and horse fancier, died today. He was 63 years old.

The world of commerce still remembers his first venture in business: The memorable wheat corner of 1898 that was broken by "Old P. D." Armour, nipping $12,000,000 from the millions amassed by Joseph's father, Levi Leiter, merchandising magnate and once partner of the first Marshall Field.

The multi-millionaire, whose pilgrim-topped hats and long flowing coats were known at every American race track, died after a two weeks' illness. At his winter home on the Louisiana coast, Leiter became ill with heart trouble. He returned to his Chicago lake shore residence. Pneumonia set in and death came shortly before 4 o'clock today.

Joseph and three sisters carried the name of Leiter all over the social and business worlds.

Surviving of Levi's four children now is only Lady Margaret Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, who spent eight years seeking to oust her brother as a trustee of the $30,000,000 Leiter estate.

$1,000,000 a Year

The other two sisters preceded their brother in death. They were Mrs. Nancy Campbell, widow of a British army officer, and Lady Mary Curzon, wife of the former viceroy of India.

His widow, and two children, Thomas and Nancy, who was adopted by the Leiters, were at the bedside of the sportsman when he died.

After the appellate court of Illinois, in May, 1931, upheld the ruling of Judge Denis J. Sullivan, denying Lady Hyde's petition for the ouster of Leiter, a compromise was reached between brother and sister. Both resigned as trustees of the estate.

Born to millions, Leiter lived his life on a grand scale. From his graduation from Harvard in 1891, he worked and played at full blast.

He lost and made fortunes and, at his death, his income was estimated at $1,000,000 a year. His

Bill To Insist On Banks Insuring All Deposits Is Pushed

Lansing, Mich., April 11, (AP)—A controversy over a bill to require banks to insure their deposits loomed today as Rep. Len W. Feighner, of Nashville, promised that he will press a house committee to report the measure this week.

The bill was introduced last week by Rep. Feighner without administration support. It also is opposed by Rudolph E. Reichert, state banking commissioner.

Feighner quoted Governor Brucker today as being opposed to his measure because "the bankers of the state don't want it." Commissioner Reichert said his opposition was based on the experience of eight other states with similar statutes, since repealed. He also expressed the opinion the plan is impracticable.

DENIES BEARS HAVE PUSHED DOWN PRICES

BLAMES PUBLIC FOR PRESENT VALUES OF SHARES

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Blame for violent fluctuations in security prices was attributed to the public today by Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange, who scoffed at claims that bear raids contributed to the recent market decline.

Testifying at the outset of the senate banking committee's investigation of the exchange, Whitney said the public placed unwarranted values on stocks in the inflationary period prior to 1929 and was now "trying to give the United States away" by excessive liquidations.

An all day cross examination by members of the committee before a crowd of spectators failed to shake his defense of short selling.

Responding to the committee's subpoena, Whitney said he would be unable to produce data showing the short account at the close of business April 8 until next Friday.

"No Bear Raiding"

Pending receipt of this information, the committee made no attempt to elicit any names of dealers in short selling who the administration is convinced have been trying to drive down prices for personal gain.

Tearing scraps of paper into little bits as he testified, Whitney characterized the stories of bear raids as "purely ridiculous" and said they were not permitted under the exchange's present rules.

While Whitney testified, the stock market resumed the decline which last week precipitated the committee's sudden investigation.

He blamed last week's fall in prices to liquidation as a result of world events, and denied it was caused by short selling. The total short interest in the market, Whitney said, declined from 3,278,000 shares on April 1, to 3,059,000 on April 5.

The illustrate his point further, Whitney testified that from September 11, to October 9, last year, when he said the market was "going down fast," the short interest declined by 2,200,000 shares.

The stock exchange head denied over and over that there had been bear raids recently.

To show they are forbidden by rules of the exchange, he told of

McGregor Will Go To Munising Today

Marquette, Mich., April 11 (AP)—Silas J. McGregor, deputy commissioner of the state department of labor and industry, will conclude hearing of eight cases here tomorrow morning. He will conduct hearings in Munising Tuesday afternoon and in Escanaba Wednesday, going from there to Sault Ste. Marie.

After leaving Sault St. Marie, he will spend several weeks in the lower peninsula, to hear cases in the district of the late Charles S White, who was killed March 31.

Volcanoes in Andes of Chile Spreading Panic

Santiago, Chile, April 11 (AP)—The central cordillera of the Andes snapped into terrifying activity today, and set her several volcanoes to belching fire and ashes in a darkening mantle over panic-stricken cities.

The drift of the fine gray powder even enveloped Buenos Aires, Argentina, 500 miles eastward, and ashes were falling in Montevideo, Uruguay, 100 miles further east.

The activity apparently centered around the giant Chilean volcano Tinguiririca, which sends her cone 14,000 feet into the sky in Colchagua province, Chile.

Severe Eruptions

Authorities had reports of activity of three smaller ones to the south—Quisapu, Descabezado and Maulino, in Talca province, and said others among the score of active cones in the central cordillera were probably spitting out their quota of ashes and lightninglike flashes of fire.

A strip of Chile 400 mile long, from Concepcion on the south to Aconcagua province on the north was affected in various degrees, as was a corresponding strip across the entire continent. The prevailing west wind picked up the fine ash rain and whirled it eastward.

Several earthquakes were recorded throughout the southern tip of the continent, although none of destroying intensity had occurred.

The greatest panic probably was felt in the province of Talca, Chile, where Quisapu rained her ashes in increasing thickness.

The several eruptions darkened Curaco to pitch blackness at noon and passersby needed umbrellas to protect their eyes. The schools were closed to stem the panic and avert disaster in case of severe tremblors.

Persons who made quick trips to the mountains reported three feet of ashes in one pass. Farmers of Talca were herding their cattle into sheltered places, and the town of Molina was in a panic on account of the terrific but non-destructive land shocks that accompanied the ashes.

Santiago proper felt the rumblings and watched a heavy pall of ashes approach, but otherwise was not seriously affected. The heavy flashes could be seen in the sky, and the suburbs of Nunoa Los Leones and Recoleta reported earth shocks.

The observatory at El Salto reported the rumblings started Saturday afternoon, and the first severe shock was recorded at 10:30 p. m. that night.

Observers theorized that the eruptions were a consequence of activity of Mount Llaima last month, a cone which has been active since the earthquake of 1928.

OLD MARSHAL WINS ELECTION

Von Hindenburg Retains Office, Plans for April 14 Voting

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Ass'd Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, April 11 (AP)—Having weathered one election by returning Paul Von Hindenburg to the presidential palace for seven more years, Germany today started preparations for another one.

On April 24, less than two weeks away, the strength of Adolf Hitler's opposition national socialists will be tested again in the election of members of the diets—the states essemblies—of Prussia, Bavaria, Wurttemburg, Hamburg and Anhalt.

The election in Prussia is by far the most important. "Whoever has Prussia, has the Reich," is an old German political maxim. Its population is 38,000,000, against 24,000,000 in the other seventeen German states, and its area is two-thirds of the entire nation.

In Prussia yeoman work has been done for the preservation of the young German republic. The determination with which Premier Otto Braun and Interior Minister Karl Severing put down the communist rebellion in Westphalia in 1921 and nipped incipient uprisings elsewhere, has been credited with saving Germany from bolshevism.

To Adolf Hitler and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, nationalist leader, the Braun-Severing government is a structure that must be torn down. It is generally believed that Hitler's Nazis, who now have only six seats in the diet of 450 members, will greatly increase their representation. Whether the Nazis and nationalists combined will strength enough to form a government of their own is another question.

President Von Hindenburg, who topped Hitler by almost 6,000,000 votes in yesterday's runoff presidential election, achieving an absolute majority, today issued an "allocution" thanking the nation for its support and calling for unity in facing the problems of the future.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening offered his formal resignation to the president, in accordance with custom, and was asked to continue at the head of the government. He acquiesced.

Lansing, Mich., April 11, (AP)—Rep. James N. McBride, Burton, tonight attacked, on the floor of the house, fees charged by the University hospital at Ann Arbor for indigent patients sent there by counties.

Contending the fees are excessive, Rep. Burton succeeded in inserting an amendment to the budget bill requiring the state administrative board to approve bills rendered for hospital service against counties.

PLAN SPEED ON REVENUE BILL

Senate Democrats Will Try to Avoid Long Debate on Issue

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Senate Democrats tonight unanimously agreed to seek early enactment of the revenue bill.

At a party conference lasting almost four hours, it was agreed to leave the door open for limited revision of the tariff but shut down debate against any general tariff revamping which might delay indefinitely the enactment of the fiscal program.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, announced after the party session that the following resolution had been unanimously agreed to:

"It is the sense of the conference of Democratic senators that the hearings on the revenue bil be closed at the earliest practicable date and that the passage of the measure be expedited in every possible way."

Closely watching the national business and economic situation, President Hoover and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, consulted tonight over the revenue bill in the senate and "national conditions."

Leaving the White House parley to confer with senate Democrats whom he had called into conference, Senator Robinson said

Michigan's Wheat Crop Is Abnormal

Lansing, Mich., April 11, (AP)—The Michigan winter wheat crop today was reported in the best condition at this date since 1927 in a statement by the Michigan crop reporting service.

Condition of the crop was reported 4 points above the ten-year average and the crop of last year. Indications, according to the report, are for a crop of 13,800,000 bushels. In view of the heavy decline in acreage, however, the output will be about 10 per cent below the average harvest.

Elsewhere the winter wheat crop is reported below average, the service said. For the nation, the condition is 5 points below the ten-year average.

WOMAN FLEES FROM BAKERY IN GREENWICH

"INSIDE STORY" OF NEGOTIATIONS IS DISCLOSED

Greenwich, Conn., April 11 (AP)—A middle-aged woman fled from a bakery here tonight after a $20 note which she had offered was identified positively by the proprietress as one of the Lindbergh ransom notes.

Police said the note bore the number KB03387539A.

The woman, who had come to the store in a green sdan driven by a chauffeur, grabbed the note and ran when the proprietress, described by police as a Mrs. Decornville, exclaimed:

"Why, that's one of the Lindbergh bills."

The bill number was originally announced at police headquarters as KB03387529A, a number which did not appear on the official list of ransom notes. Officials announced later, however, that a recheck had shown the next to the last digit was a "3" instead of a "2".

Mrs. Decornville, who has resided in Greenwich less than two weeks, had a newspaper list of the ransom bills posted beside the counter. She told police the woman, well dressed and attractive, entered the shop at 5 p. m., and tendered the note after ordering a strawberry pie and a loaf of bread.

The bakery is on the Boston Post road in the center of Greenwich.

Greenwich police broadcast a description of the automobile and the woman on the automatic typewriter system.

STILL ALIVE

Jersey City, N. J., April 11 (AP)—Inspector Harry Walsh, of the Jersey City police department, who has been associated in the hunt for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, said tonight the police have "very good reasons" for believing the child is alive and well.

He declined to amplify the statement, but said he was going to New York to investigate four bills in connection with the ransom money paid by Col. Lindbergh.

NO WORD YET

Hopewell, N. J., April 11 (AP)—Fresh activity both in the police and private search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was disclosed tonight while the famous flier was described as still without further word from the criminals who failed to surrender the child upon payment of $50,000 ransom.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf went to New York during the afternoon and conferred, it was believed, both with Col. Henry Beckinridge, attorney for Lindbergh, and Dr. John F. Condon, elderly educator, acting as an intermediary in the case.

Col. Schwarzkopf told of the visit to Col. Beckinridge in a police bulletin, saying "nothing of importance was developed." From other sources came word that the police superintendent also went to a New York apartment and met Dr. Condon, reputed author of a series of cryptic newspaper advertisements signed "Jafsie."

The official bulleton also announced that Greenwich, Conn., police were making a search for a car which carried a middle aged woman away from a bakery there after the shopkeeper had remarked that a bill she tendered her was one of those which Col. Lindbergh paid the kidnapers.

Meantime, Attorney General William A. Stevens of New Jersey said that he would appear before the Hunterdon county grand jury tomorrow and that he felt "in duty bound to go into

DEMAND IRISH HOLD TO OATH

Gravity of Situation is Explained to House By J. H. Thomas

BY P. H. MYRING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, April 11 (AP)—Great Britain and Ireland stood tonight in as complete a political deadlock as ever before in all the troubled history of their relations.

The gravity of the situation which has arisen as a result of the intention of President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Free State to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown, was made clear by a statement in the house of commons by J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions.

Mr. Thomas drew ringing cheers from most sections of the house when he said the British government "reaffirmed in unmistakable language that they stand absolutely by the treaty"—meaning the Anglo-Irish treaty on which the Free State government is based.

The greater part of the speech by the dominions secretary was devoted to directing the attention of the house to the correspondence which has passed between Great Britain and Ireland in the last three weeks.

Downright Phrases

He said that correspondence would be given out as soon as he sat down. Members who rushed excitedly to obtain copies of the interchange when he took his seat found that it consisted essentially of British and Irish assertions and counter-assertions regarding the oath and regarding the payment of land annuities by the Irish.

Despite protestations of each side's desire for "friendly relations," the communications contained phrases so downright as to be rare in diplomatic correspondence.

The Anglo-Irish treaty, President De Valera said in a note dated April 5, "has meant consummation of the outrage of partition and alienation of the most sacred of our national territory (northern Ireland) with all the cultural and material loss that this unnatural separation entails."

"British maintenance parties are still in occupation of some of our principal courts, even in the area of the Free State," he continued. "Our coastal defense still is in British hands.

"Britain claims right in times of war or strained relations with a foreign power to make demands upon Ireland which, if granted, will make our right to neutrality a mockery."

Later in the same note Mr. De Valera said: "To England this agreement gave peace and added prestige. In Ireland it raised brother's hand against brother, gave us ten years of blood and tears, and besmirched the name of Ireland wherever a foul propaganda has been able to misrepresent us."

On the British side, Mr. Thomas said in a communication dated April 9 that "his Majesty's government in the United Kingdom have publicly indicated on many occasions in the most formal and emphatic manner that they stand absolutely by the treaty settlement and to this position they most formally adhere."

PLAN SPEED ON REVENUE BILL

in response to inquiries, the question of the tariff row enveloping the budget balancing revenue bill had been discussed.

Watch Developments

Beyond that the Democratic leader declined to go, remarking that further statements should come from the White House. Earlier in the day, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, returned to the capitol to initiate a movement for a limitation on the tariff duties to be considered in connection with the tax bill.

The president and congressional leaders are watching intently the fluctuations in the business world, keenly alive to the situation. There is every indication of a unity among the nation's political leaders for a program looking to a stabilization of the economic situation.

Coincidental with the stock market inquiry to determine the full effect of short selling on the decline of security prices, the government is seeking to analyze the effect of business uncertainty that might be resulting from the doubt over the new tax bill.

There appears to be definitely developing a determined bi-partisan move to clean up the entire fiscal situation for the government's new year beginning next July 1, before adjournment is taken for the plitical conventions early in June.

Also, as a result of recent declines in the stock market, there have been intimations of a definite move by the president to call in business leaders with a view to avoiding any dangerous liquidations.

the Lindbergh kidnaping."

"INSIDE STORY"

Hopewell, N. J., April 11 (AP)—An "inside story" of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's unsuccessful ransom negotiations for the return of his son came to light as the famous flier waited tonight for a renewal of his contacts with the kidnapers.

The colonel held a definite means of identifying the men to whom he turned over $50,000 in $5, $10 and $20 bills, should they wish to communicate secretly with him once more, but from the Lindbergh home came word that "no further contacts" had been established.

While the colonel waited for some message explaining the failure of the abductors to live up to their promise and return the baby, it was learned from an authoritative source that he had received at least seven notes from them, in addition to the original ransom demand left in the nursery 41 days ago.

It was a characteristic of these note, believed to be the strange signature, which convinced him he was dealing with the same persons who left the first note.

Branding the failure of the kidnapers to return the aviator's namesake a "tragic trick," the Washington Evening Star published what it called an amazing story of events leading up to the payment of the $50,000.

The paper said Dr. John F. Condon, a retired New York educator, made the ransom negotiations possible through a series of 13 newspaper advertisements signed "Jafsie."

At Dr. Condon's New York home late in the day the person who answered the telephone refused to say whether he was there or to discuss any phase of the story printed in Washington.

Describes Details

Details of the various contacts were described by the paper as follows:

On March 16 in an obscure spot on the shore of Long Island Sound negotiators for the kidnapers held their first meeting with representatives of the Lindberghs, Dr. Condon and Col. Henry Breckinridge, the flier's attorney, were present at the meeting.

Lindbergh had obtained a complete set of his son's fingerprints from toys and furniture in the nursery. He demanded a set from the kidnapers. They refused.

Instead they asked that the $50,000 they demanded be left in a certain place, and promised, after they had several days to escape, that the baby would be returned.

This Colonel Lindbergh refused to agree to. As stated in a Jafsie advertisement, he wanted it to be a "C. O. D." transaction.

Another meeting took place on March 24 near a cemetery and the next day a Jafsie advertisement mentioned receipt of a package "accepted as the real article," apparently some article designed to prove the negotiators actually were acting for the real kidnapers.

Late on the night of April 1 Lindbergh, Col. Beckinridge and a third man believed to have been Fogarty, a private detective, left in Lindbergh's car carrying to black suitcases and heavy wraps. The money presumably was in the bags.

Where they went is not known but the money is believed to have been turned over to a representative of the abductors on the following morning.

That day a Jafsie advertisement said:

"Yes, everything O. K." it was interpreted as a notification to the kidnapers the money had been paid.

The promised answer containing directions for finding the baby followed. It said the child was on a boat off Cape Cod.

On April 3 and 4 Lindbergh, Beckinridge and at least one other man were seen in a plane in the vicinity of Martha's Vineyard, Mass. They were looking for a yacht named Sally or Nellie, did not find it.

Tuesday passed without an explanation of why the agreement had not been carried out. On Wednesday a Jafsie advertisement read:

"What is wrong? Have you crossed me. Please better directions."

In addition to that story, the Star said the original ransom note threatened death to the baby if police were called in, and the paper also stated the abductors at one time expressed dissatisfaction with the publicity regarding the case and demanded $70,000 but that the amount was cut down to the original $50,000 by efforts of Dr. Condon.

Edward P. Mulrooney, New York police commissioner, assigned detectives to interview the professor, after stating he knew nothing about Dr. Condon's reported part in the negotiations.

In connection with the Washington story, it was recalled that last Wednesday was the date on which the treasury department issued the list of the bills Lindbergh turned over as the ransom.

Paid Only $50,000

It also was recalled that Lindbergh, in revealing he had paid the ransom, said several days were permitted to elapse after he had turned over the money before he asked the aid of the treasury department, to give the kidnapers every opportunity to keep their agreement.

A man located for questioning last Friday by New York police was disclosed today to have been named Sylvan Ortlieb. Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police head, said the man came voluntarily to Hopewell, was questioned and returned home Friday night.

The statement taken from him is being investigated, he said.

It was assumed Ortlieb the same man Schwarzkopf last night described as a "noted character" whose story was being checked.

The police superintendent inferently denied Col. Lindbergh paid more than $50,000 ransom. He was asked if a published report the flier had paid $100,000 were true and replied the question had been answered in Saturday's bulletin, which announced the payment of only $50,000.

Gov. A. Harry Moore said he was continuing his personal investigation of the kidnaping and had spent all yesterday interviewing persons who thought they had valuable clues. He made it clear he did not intend, however, to take over complete charge of the police investigation.

GIBSON GIVES U. S. POSITION

Says America Willing to Vote for Abolition of Heavy Artillery

BY P. I. LIPSEY, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Geneva, April 11 (AP)—The United States delegation to the disarmament conference today proposed abolition of aggressive weapons of land warfare—tanks, mobile heavy artillery, and gases—and received the cordial support of Great Britain.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who presented the American recommendations, pointed out that if adopted they would do much to root out fears for national security and that they would permit reductions in the cost of arms at a time of "insistent demand for economy throughout the world."

Approval for the suggestions, for the most part guarded, came from the representatives of Germany, France and Italy, and the program was referred to a conference committee for decision after it has been discussed with kindred proposals from other nations.

Mr. Gibson made it clear that his suggestions were inadequate in themselves and that his government was prepared later for the abolition of bombing planes.

"We are ready to cooperate whole-heartedly in the realization on this American proposal," said Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary. "It is a practical step in disarmament."

The American ambassador's speech was a re-statement and amplification of the position expressed by his government at the opening of the conference in February.

He pointed out that national demands for security are based on the doubts a government and its people feel about their ability to withstand invasion. Recent technical progress, he explained, has lessened the value of safeguards against invasion, such as frontier fortifications, and the abolition of the aggressive weapons in question would counteract this condition.

Reapportionment Law Of Three States Illegal

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Three states were told today by the supreme court that their reapportionment laws were invalid because they lacked their governors' approval.

New York, Minnesota and Missouri had passed statutes reshaping their congressional districts but the decision threw the tangle back where it was when they began.

The question presented in all three was the same—whether the legislature had the right to redistrict without the governor's signature on the legislation—as is required where ordinary statutes are concerned, unless passed over his veto.

Immediately there arose the prospect that every candidate for the house in Minnesota and Missouri would have to run in the state at large unless their legislatures passed a new and valid redistricting law in the brief time before election. Chief Justice Hughes said so in his opinion.

12 Governors Ask For Copper Tariff

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Immediate imposition of a tariff on copper was requested of President Hoover today in a petition signed by the governors of 12 states.

The petition, saying the treasury is in "extreme distress" and blaming it on competition of foreign copper, was presented by a delegation of senators and representatives headed by Frank H. Hitchcock of Arizona, a former postmaster general.

It was signed by the governors of Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, California, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Tennessee, Michigan, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana.

Vulcan Farm Girl Captures Cattle Judging Contest

Fort Adkinson, Wis., April 11 (AP)—Alice Boone, a Vulcan, Mich., farm girl, today was announced as the first place winner in the junior nation-wide cattle judging contest sponsored by Hoard's Dairyman, national dairy magazine.

Five cash prizes were awarded Michigan entries among the 45,000 contestants, the announcement said, and five from Michigan were accorded honorable mention. Rex Flinchbaugh, Dimondale, and Kenneth Skog, Metropolitan, won fourth and twelfth places respectively in the junior division while Frances W. Jenkins, Dimondale, was sixth and William Ramsey, Wixom, fourteenth, in the junior division. Edward Czapiga, Caspian, and Louis Simon, Remus, received honorable mention among the juniors and Louis E. Perrine, Albion, Mrs. Bernice Knapp, Owosso, and Wilbur H. Priddy, Oxford, were accorded similar honors in the senior classification.

amount out?" he asked.

The bill provides a 10 percent reduction in pay for employes receiving from $1,200 to $3,000; 15 percent on salaries between $3,000 and $4,000; 20 percent between $4,000 and $5,000, and 25 percent on all salaries above $5,000.

The legislature reconvened with a promise from Governor Wilber M. Brucker that he will recommend the payment of a $1,400,000 debt to the counties for the care of tuberculosis patients. He stated, however, that he will not advocate any new form of revenue to finance the apportionment.

A supplemental message will be sent to the legislature probably Thursday, the governor stated. In it he will ask the legislature to recognize the state's obligation to the counties, and to make an appropriation.

Speaker Fred R. Ming has proposed a retail store franchise fee as a means of raising money to meet the tuberculosis debt, but the governor said he will not open the way for such a measure.

The state's indebtedness to the counties is an outgrowth of an act passed some time ago providing the state shall pay counties $1 a day for each tuberculosis patient cared for in county institutions.

Advisory League Officials Are Not Able To Pay Bond

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Seven officials of the People's Advisory League, facing charges of practicing law through a corporation, were placed in the county jail tonight when they were unable to furnish bonds of double the sum under which they had been at liberty since their arrest a week ago.

They were held for trial today by Recorder's Judge John V. Brennan and their bonds fixed at sums ranging from $500 to $1,000.

The defendants are: O. James Crews, Peter G. Rowe, John A. Mowat, Harry Fletcher, Lyle D. Chase, John J. Tierney and Fred Willis. The league sponsored a radio broadcast known as the "Quaker Counsellor" until a few weeks ago.

Nathan Gross Gets Fine Or Jail Term

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Convicted two months ago of fraudulent misapplication of funds, Nathan M. Gross, former vice president of the defunct Federal Bond and Mortgage company, today was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000, or serve six months to three years in prison.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Henry S. Sweeney in recorder's court. Gross was granted 20 days to file an appeal.

Gross was convicted of misapplying $20,000 belonging to the National Assurance company of Toledo, following a grand jury investigation of the affairs of the Federal Bond and Martgage company, which closed with reported heavy losses to investors. Judge Sweeney, in passing sentence, said he found that, while Gross "may have felt sincerely," that he was doing right, his action was construed as a "technical violation of the statutes."

Sale Of Baby Bonds To Be Discontinued

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Baby bonds used by the citizen's reconstruction organization to lure hoarded money from its hiding places are believed by Secretary Mills to have served their purpose and their sale will be discontinued Wednesday.

The secretary announced tonight that the books on the issue of two percent treasury certificates of indebtedness would be closed. He did announce the total of the bonds that have been sold, but officials have pointed out that the good accomplished by them far exceeded the amount, which was never expected to be large.

TOWEY SPEAKS TO KIWANIANS

Treatment of Tuberculosis Explained by Pinecrest Head

Modern methods being used in the treatment of tuberculosis were explained by Dr. John W. Towey, medical superintendent of Pinecrest Sanatorium, in an interesting talk before the Escanaba-Wells Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

X-ray pictures of the lungs of tuberculosis patients were shown by Dr. Towey in illustrating his lecture, in which he dwelled particularly on the collapse therapy methods, which have been used at Pinecrest sanatorium with much success for more than a year. Collapse therapy, the speaker stated, has made it possible to arrest of the ravages of the disease, and after a comparatively brief period of hospitalization to allow the patient to return home and take the usual place in society.

From the standpoint of public health, collapse therapy has performed a useful function in that it eliminates the danger of spreading the disease from the patient to others. Economically, since tuberculosis sufferers are mostly charity cases, the taxpayers benefit because the length of hospitalization required for a patient is reduced, and from the social point of view there is the advantage that the patient can return sooner to again assume his or her responsibilities.

Dr. Towey explained that Pinecrest Sanatorium is owned jointly by Delta, Menominee and Dickinson counties, and that Iron County has been contemplating for some time to acquire a fourth interest by payment of $100,000, which would permit the building of an addition to the building and the installation of more modern equipment. Iron county's purchase of the share, however, has been delayed because of present economic conditions.

Since the sanatorium was established 10 years ago, 1100 patients have been registered, Dr. Towey said. The building was erected to hospitalize 70 patients, but an average of one hundred have been confined, creating an overcrowded condition. Each of the three counties contributes $10,000 annually toward the support of the institution, while the state gives financial aid by paying one dollar per day per patient. The state derives its money for this purpose from the malt tax, which amounts to about $750,000 annually, a sum not sufficient to take care of all the sanatoria in the state. At the present time, the state owes Pinecrest sanatorium about $39,000.

HAIG'S FAMOUS ORDER

On April 12, 1918, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig issued an order to British troops on the front in the Lys sector to "fight it out to the end."

"The safety of our homes and the freedom on mankind depend alike upon the conduct of each of us at this time," his general order read.

Despite the great tenacity of the outnumbered British soldiers in the Lys sector, German storm troops pushed them back after a day of terrific fighting.

German bulletins claimed their men had reached their objectives for the day and said that they had entered Neuve Eglise.

American troops on the Toul sector captured 36 German prisoners in a trench engagement of unusual severity.

Germany announced a submarine blockade of Spain, following the signing of a commercial agreement between that nation and the United States.

STUDENTS MUST SPEAK-HARRIS

Expelled College Editor Writes on Part Youth Must Play

BY REED HARRIS

(Student Editor Recently Expelled from Columbia University)

(Copyright 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

During my educational career, particularly the year I have passed as editor of a college newspaper, I have been more and more amazed at the fact that students in America are expected never to voice an opinion critical of the existing order. Even among a number of the country's most outspoken critics, such action on the part of students meets with exclamations of "bad manners," "immature judgment," or "smart alec." And yet, a careful survey of the more serious American college publications reveals an extraordinary number of clearly expressed, carefully conceived articles on topics of major importance to the country at large.

Reed Harris

The growing ranks of thinking students in America are, fortunately, beginning to make themselves heard in spite of the opposition of conservative upholders of the past. Magazines such as the Yale "Harkness Hoot," the Columbia "Varsity Review" and others are putting forth material worth serious consideration by that portion of the public which is interested in the future of the United States.

A tolerant, intelligent consideration of the views of these modern students would do much to revive the apparently dead brains which maintain the country at the present mediocre level.

Other nations of the world expect and count upon the student elements to play important parts in the political life of their countries. Reforms of importance in the governments of these nations are brought about frequently through the efforts of student movements. Student expression is seldom muzzled, and when the right of free speech is interfered with, a mighty protest arises. Political figures never fail to keep their eyes on the students of the countries, for their fates are often decided in student meeting halls.

The people of the United States neglect to consider the fact that students, being on the first lap of life, have more at stake in the social order than the older citizens, for it is these students who must live on through middle age and old age in this country of ours. The ordinary attitude of an established business man of the country that all student criticism is somehow merely the silly mouthing of babies is as tragic as it is ridiculous.

America cannot go on with its old mechanism. Changes must came, and vital changes. And, by the very nature of things, these changes will begin in the ranks of young men and women, students and non-students. Their ideas are valuable, particularly in these months of world distress. Expression, complete and free, must be allowed them.

The clumsy, obvious attempts to muzzle various organs through which the students of America attempt to speak, only increases youthful distrust of the traditional set-up. "There must be something wrong with an order which can no longer stand criticism," they say.

Let this distrust and its accompanying resentment reach notable heights and trouble, serious, even terrible, may result. Riots—even revolutions have resulted from such tyrannical suppressions.

Young men and women in this country have a right to be heard. The old theory of respect for elders must not be allowed to carry with it respect for everything for which these elders stand, for ancestor worship only results in political and economic decay. At a time when the vital spirit of America is at low ebb, and youthful blood, youthful spirit, and youthful ideas are needed as never before, reactionary forces must not be allowed to suppress youthful expression, student or non-student.

Classmate Of Dube Mayor Of Montreal

The Honorable Fernand Rinfret was elected mayor of Montreal, P. Q. Canada, April 2. He received 66,850 votes or a majority of 12,781 over his nearest opponent Camillien Houde who received 54,049. Honorable Rinfret was a classmate of Peter C. Dube of Escanaba when the two men attended college at Notre Dame de la Cote des Neiges in Montreal more than 30 years ago.

The college is affiliated with Notre Dame college at South Bend, Ind., and is under the direction of the Notre Dame Fathers of the Congregation of the Sacred Cross. Mr. Dube sent a telegram of congratulations to his former classmate when he received the message announcing the result of the election.

Failure to meet our deficits will inevitably precipitate the withdrawal of a vast amount of foreign credits in this country. —Silas H. Strawn, president, United States Chamber of Commerce.

Oconto Lumberman Has Devoted Fifty Years to Business

Oconto, Wis., April 11 (Special)—Although expecting when he married in 1895 that all timber would be cut in 10 years and the mill closed, W. A. Holt, nationally known lumber manufacturer of this city, and president of the Holt Lumber company, Tuesday will complete 50 years of service with that organization, and indications are that the company will continue operations some time.

Born in Lake Forest, Ill., in 1865, he came to Oconto at 17 to work in the company provision store. His grandfather, D. R. Holt, established the business in 1847 in Chicago in the days when all lumber was received from mills by boat. The sawmill at Oconto was purchased in 1862 in partnership with Uri Balcom. In 1888 the latter's interest was acquired and the present owner became manager for his father. In 1922 W. A. Holt purchased the interest of a brother, George H. Holt, and became president.

Mill Built in 1856

Built in 1856 by George Farnsworth sr., the Holt sawmill is said to be the oldest active mill in this part of the country, spanning an era of marvelous development and growth in the Middle West. The mill stands as a part of the present structure, containing large hewn timbers still strong after 75 years of service and in contrast with electrically operated modern machinery they help support.

In the early days, Mr. Holt recalls, white pine was the dominant wood and all lumber was shipped by water. Originally built for northern pine manufacture, the Oconto mill cut that wood exclusively until 1899, when the first hemlock was cut.

Normal Output Enormous

Normally the mill, one of the largest in this region, cuts about 25,000,000 feet annually, the output running about one-half each of hemlock and mixed hardwoods. Some years the mill has produced as much as 40,000,000 feet. Lumber camps are operated on large timber holdings in northern Oconto and in Forest counties. The company also operates a complete flooring mill, an electric lighting plant which sells excess current to the Wisconsin Public Service corporation, and a shingle mill. It is a matter of pride to Mr. Holt that he has gathered around him many employes who have seen service extending to more than half a century.

Mr. Holt is a director and former president of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association, director of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association and of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, and a member of the advisory committee of the latter's inter-insurance exchange.

Active in Church Work

Mr. Holt is a member of the First Presbyterian church here, in which he has been an elder 37 years. For 20 years he was Sunday School superintendent. Last year he was president of the Kiwanis club and donated the use of land on which was sponsored club gardens for needy families, a project which will be continued. He has also served as mayor.

In 1895, W. A. Holt was married to Miss Lucy Rumsey, daughter of Capt. I. P. Rumsey. There are four children, Jeannette, at home; Alfred H., pursuing graduate study at Williams college; Mrs. Donald S. (Eleanor) DeWitt, Oconto, and Donald R., treasurer of Holt Lumber company, Oconto.

STAYS AT U. OF M.

Edward O. Curran, graduate of Escanaba high school, has accepted a research assistantship at the University of Michigan and will remain at Ann Arbor following his graduation in June, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Curran, 215 Ogden avenue. Curran, who is a senior in the law school, has an outstanding scholastic record, and was offered the choice of a scholarship or the position on the research staff, accepting the latter. He plans to visit his parents in Escanaba after graduation in June.

PAINFUL PANE

London—Dorothy Baker, 18, of Gosforth, will look before she runs the next time. She recently ran across a street with her head bent down. When she reached the other side she crashed into a plate glass window being carried by two workmen. The glass was valued at more than $100. She was painfully cut.

Forgery Warrant Held At Escanaba For Over 4 Years

An offense alleged to have been committed more than four years ago brought about the arrest of Trifley Ambeau at Escanaba Monday. Ambeau was charged with raising a time order from $3.54 to $354 and cashing it at a local store on Dec. 21, 1928. Arraigned before Justice J. S. Doherty Monday after his arrest by an Escanaba police officer, Ambeau pleaded guilty to forgery and was bound over to circuit court under $1,000 bond.

Officers said other charges were pending against Ambeau. He has been a resident of Escanaba and vicinity up to the time of the order incident, but could not be located by police after that. Recently they learned of his return to this vicinity, and served the warrant on the four-year-old offense. The order was on a logging concern for whom Ambeau was employed in the winter of 1928.

GARDENS FOR JOBLESS

CREATED work for Escanaba's unemployed will be at an end in the near future. The storm sewer job in North Escanaba will be completed within a week or so, and little work is left to do at the new sewage disposal plant. Patching of the streets of course, remains to be done but that is only enough to keep the regular repair crew employed.

Escanaba has carried out an extensive program of public improvements during the last year, but what of this summer? Some work will open up, but a comparatively few of the several hundred men, who have been employed by the city, will have employment through the summer.

With a minimum of effort this community can help these men to help themselves during the next few months. By organized effort, parcels of land could be obtained in and near Escanaba to be used as garden plots for the unemployed. Unemployed men could take care of their plots when not working elsewhere. With a normal season, a good share of their living could come from these gardens.

It is time to start making plans now. The garden season is almost here. Here is an opportunity for some civic organization or governmental agency to launch a worth-while project. Someone must take the responsibility of obtaining a list of garden plots available to the unemployed, and provisions must be made to secure seed at reasonable terms. The program would take little money and not much effort, but it would yield high returns. Men, women and children must eat the year around. The end of the winter unfortunately has not brought the end of suffering. Who volunteers?

THE HUNTER FOR GOLD

THE papers didn't give very much space to the death of John E. Lee, the Montana prospector who was known in the west for decades as "Golden Jack." They just told us enough about the man to whet our appetites and make us wish we could know a little more.

"Golden Jack" was, by profession, a seeker for gold; and if there is an odder or more attractive job on earth, it is hard to think just what it may be. He had spent most of his life tramping over the western ranges, and the fortune he sought always eluded him; but even without having known the man it is not hard to guess that he had no regrets and that he would have followed the same course if he had been given a chance to start all over again.

For that is the attitude the typical gold-hunter always has; and it is because we all have a dim realization of the advantages which such a philosophy offers that we usually feel a sneaking bit of envy when we read about such chaps.

The gold-seeker is out for money, of course, and he always has, shining ahead of him somewhere, a lofty vision of great riches; but he generally knows in his heart that that vision is never going to be realized, and the knowledge doesn't disconcert him in the least. The hunt itself is satisfying enough; and there is where he has the bulge on the rest of us.

For we're all after hidden treasure, in one way or another. We all chase a vision, and we put up with monotony and self-denial and so on for year after year with the notion that the reward we're after will make it all up to us, once we get it. But usually we never get it at all, and in the end all we have is the memory of the hunt for it.

And that, we're often forced to admit, isn't enough. Hunting for real gold on western mountains is one thing, and plugging away at a job in a city office or factory is something else again. The prospector wins even when he loses. The rest of us stake everything on the gamble for material success, and if we don't get it we've little else to fall back on.

SOAKING THE RICH

WHILE Michigan papers with the close of the week have commented variously yet the most pertinent emphasis may be judged to be with respect to the federal tax bill before congress. The fallacy of "soaking the rich" is pointed out.

The Battle Creek Enquirer-News deals with the mistaken idea of federal taxationby saying:

"Secretary Mills confirms the conclusion which many citizens had reached, after reading of the confused sessions held in the house on the tax bill, that hope for some legislation helpful to the country lies in the senate. Secretary Mills softened no words in his testimony before the senate finance committee. He said plainly and vigorously that the disjointed tax bill which the house scrambled together is restrictive and destructive, will impede the nation's financial recovery and is a socialistic departure from the principles of the American system. When engaged in financial matters, it would seem the logical thing and the safest thing is to listen to the counsel of the financial expert who is in charge of the government's financial department.t The house did not, however, and it remains to be seen whether the senate will."

The Muskegon Chronicle noting the effort of the house to make the rich pay the cost of government deals with the theory thus:

"Great difficulty would be experienced by executors and administrators in making payments because they would not have sufficient assets that could be readily turned into cash, he pointed out. The result would be that they would be forced to sacrifice capital values, to the disruption of business. Regardless of the merits of the contention, so far as the proposed drastic estate tax is concerned, the principle on which it is based is elemental, yet totally ignored by thetypical 'progressive' orator, whose solution of all the problems, economic, social and political, of the nation are summed up in the phrase 'soak the rich.' And because the agitator ignores it, and because ignorance is so widespread, even in the ranks of citizens presumably much more intelligent, there are undercurrents of unrest and political radicalism."

The Adrian Telegram thinks that much demagogic criticism is being leveled against the government creation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The telegram continues:

"The phrase 'a dole to the rich' wriggles away like a poisonous little snake, so fast that the truth cannot quite overtake it. Now let us look at the facts. The Reconstruction Finance corporation was not designed to give a 'dole' to anybody. It was designed to save banks from failing and ruining thousands of depositors. It was designed to save railroads from failing, and to preserve the value of their bonds which form a large part of the security for your life insurance policy. It was designed to help closed banks to reopen and loosen up millions of deposits that their customers needed. It was designed to help land banks, agricultural and livestock credit corporations to serve agriculture. Its loans are restricted to those classes of business. It cannot make loans to ordinary business concerns, nor loans for expansions or new enterprises not already covered by ordinary bank financing. That is its purpose. When Pinchot calls its loans a 'dole to big business' he is intellectually dishonest because he is deliberately conveying a wrong impression."

A professional says the chin is 25 per cent of golf form. It's nearer 90 per cent for most golfers we know.

Maybe it was just a coincidence, but did you notice that steamship lines started giving excursion fares just before the big opening in Finland?

If they put Hoover's picture on the new three-cent stamps Democrats will be sure to lick him.

One reason for the depression is loss of foreign trade. Another reason is loss of money.

The Man Hunters

(By NEA Service) By MABEL MCELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY finishes a business course and secures her first job with ERNEST HEATH, architect. BOB DUNBAR, son of a Chicago millionaire, comforts her after a disagreeable experience with a prospective employer. Susan's AUNT JESSIE, old-fashioned and strict, encourages her friendship with BEN LAMPMAN, a moody young musician. Ben takes her to a studio party. She is lonely but repulses the flirtatious advances of JACK WARINC, who works in the same office. Bob Dunbar asks her to lunch and tells her he is going abroad. Susan realizes she is in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

DENISE ACKROYD, slim and perfect in her tailored suit of black faille, continued to stare insolently at Susan but her words were addressed to Bob Dunbar.

"Where have you been keeping yourself?" Denise went on in that high, sweet, agreeable voice, which had rung out above the others that night at he Strinskys' studio. Bob said rather uncomfortably that he had been with the family at Lake Geneva, that he had got in some golf.

"You look it," said Denise, surveying him with what Susan thought a proprietary gaze. Susan felt out of it. The other girl, with the ease and smoothness of long practice, had taken control of the situation. Susan was suddenly conscious that her rose pink shantung was all wrong. She wondered, dismally, why she had come. She was out of place in this big, cool, shining room where all the lunchers seemed to know each other and stopped to talk and laugh in little intimate groups.

If the other girl was aware of any rudeness in ignoring Susan she gave no sign. She monopolized young Dunbar completely. It was only when Susan, raging in her heart, gathered up her gloves and said she must go that Denise appeared to notice her.

"Oh, you have a job, I suppose?" she said in a surprised, faintly disdainful tone. As if, thought Susan angrily, there was anything wrong about having a job!

"No, don't come with me," Susan insisted to the young man. "Really, I must rush and you may as well stay and talk."

Surely he won't take me at my word, the girl thought. Surely he'll finish what he started to say before that hateful Denise interrupted!

Womanlike, Susan insisted that the young man should do exactly what she hoped he would not. She did not really believe he would take her at her word. But Dunbar by this time was bewildered by her silence and sudden coolness. He began to imagine the flash of understanding which had passed between them was nothing but a mirage. He walked with her as far as the lobby where, puzzled and annoyed by her new, distant manner he left her and returned to the restaurant and Denise.

WALKING across town, Susan raged in her heart. The click of her heels kept time with her furious thoughts. "I hate her. I hate her. I hate her," she stormed inwardly.

She was hard put to it to keep back the tears. The day which had seemed so perfect an hour ago was unendurable. The sun beat down on the pavements, the big policeman at Adams and Clark looked fairly wilted. No wonder, thought Susan, that girls like Denise Ackroyd always managed to look so exquisitely turned out. They had their half hundred little French frocks, their efficient maids in the background. They had swimming and tennis. They had adoring parents who existed for the sole purpose, apparently, of paying bills. For the first time in her life Susan began to be really sorry for herself. She wondered rebelliously if life needed to be so utterly unfair. The corrosion of self pity ate into her soul.

It was in this mood that she entered the office, hung up her hat, and with notebook in hand went into Mr. Heath's private office to take dictation. Yesterday all this had seemed quite thrilling.

She had imagination to see the poetry that lay behind the prosaic talk of stone and mellow beams and steel work. Yesetrday Susan had thought of herself as a cog in this important business machine. A small cog, it is true, but still a necessary one. Now she wondered dully why that had seemed to matter. She wanted passionately to be the sort of girl Denise Ackroyd was. She wanted to be able to laugh and talk flutingly of the endless nothings which seemed to make up the conversation of that particular crowd.

Ernest Heath wondered what had happened to the girl. She was so quiet and pale, so subdued. Quite unconsciously he had come in the last few weeks to depend upon and to expect the flash of glowing understanding, the ready response that was half Susan's charm. Today all that was absent.

"I wonder if the girl is ill," Heath thought, for the moment vaguely annoyed at the idea. For the first time since she had been in his employ he began to speculate, idly, on the girl's life apart from Ernest Heath, Incorporated. Like most men of his type—correct, dignified, rich and unimaginative—his secretary of the moment always seemed to him to have been created for the sole purpose of arriving promptly at nine each morning, discharging her duties crisply and efficiently, and departing on the stroke of five into some dim limbo he neither knew nor cared to know about.

MISS O'CONNELL whose place Susan was taking had always seemed to him the veriest robot. It had never occurred to Heath to wonder what her life outside the office might be. But then Miss O'Connell was nearing 40. She wore rimless eyeglasses and, as Ray Flannery had devastatingly announced, had worn a hair net. Susan was different. Heath, sedate and grave as he was, had not realized what an inspiration there had been for him in this girl's eager, upward glance. The flash of dark gray eyes under long lashes, the rich apricot color that occasionally stained her cheek—irrationally now he missed them and, manlike, was annoyed without knowing why.

Listlessly Susan finished her task. Her employer, with a pricking sense of uneasiness, signed the completed letters, snatched his impeccable Panama from the rack and departed in the direction of Hubbard Woods. Susan closed and locked her desk and dawdled over the business of washing her hands. Somehow she was not at all eager to go home. The dull pain at her heart which had been clamoring for notice all afternoon seemed intensified. With that sharpness of perception which seems to come to all of us after we have done an irretrievably foolish thing Susan saw how stupidly wrong she had been to leave Bob Dunbar as she had.

"You're a little fool," she told herself angrily. "You left the field completely to Denise!" She sighed and the sigh was like a groan.

"What on earth's the matter?"

SUSAN glanced up to see the round eyes of Ray Flannery staring at her. "Nobody," said Ray

THE TIME BETWEEN

After the snow, not even then
Grass and the tree and rose again.
Many a rainy April day
Always before the flow'rs of May.
Many the wise who come to me,
When I come down from Calvary,
"Winter is over, be glad and sing!"
But it never is so with Spring.

No, they must let me weep awhile.
Grief is too near me now to smile.
Out of the past I cannot leap
Into the future. Let me weep.
Wait for a little ere joy arrives—
These are the Aprils of our lives.
"Tears are a very foolish thing"—
But it never is so with Spring.

Winter will wait a little yet;
Nor can a heart so soon forget.
March, and then April, then the May.
Never, though, in a single day.
Slowly the earth will turn to green.
For there is always time between.
"Sorrow is over, be glad and sing!"
But it is never so with Spring.

'Looking Backward'

APRIL 12, 1912

The cannon ball, which leaves the Northwestern depot every morning for Perronville, was delayed ten minutes yesterday because a savage doy chased the brakeman, Peter Garity, all around the train and into the yards of the Escanaba Manufacturing Company. The conductor kept calling "all aboard," and still no Pete Garrity. Finally another brakeman saw Peter's predicament and chased the ferocious dog away. Tre cannon ball pulled out of the station ten minutes late all on account of a dog and a badly frightened brakeman.

Home Talent Play Cast Is Announced

"Hurry, Hurry, Hurry" is the title of the three act farce comedy which will be given Sunday and Monday, April 17 and 18 at St. Joseph's high school auditorium for the benefit of St. Joseph's church under the direction of Rev. Fr. Gerald Beck. The cast of characters has been chosen to include some of the best local talent. The rehearsals have been well attended and all indications point to a grand success.

Fr. Beck

The cast of characters includes: Dr. G. J. Gleich as a business man, Clayton Todd, as a cowboy author, Harold Frederickson, a college junior, Gerrard Beanger, a football hero, Hazen Hengesh a college professor, Miss Catherine Cholette a vivacious debutante, Miss Alice Ammel a languishing dilettante, Miss Marie Geyer, as the pert housemaid, and the modern mother is played by Mrs. G. J. Gleich.

The play is a Samuel French publication by LeRoy Arnold and is being sponsored by the Holy Name society of St. Joseph's parish.

AMUSEMENTS

Beginning today, the Delft Theatre will present "The Heart of New York," a Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture featuring Joe Smith, Charles Dale, George Sidney and a strong special cast, for a two day engagement.

"The Heart of New York" is based on the play "Mendel, Inc.," which enjoyed a year's run during New York's latest theatrical season. Joe Smith and Charles Dale, prominent for more than twenty years as the mainstays of the Avon Comedy Four, vaudeville's ace team, have the same roles in the picture as they had in the New York production of the play. In addition, George Sidney plays the part of Mendel, the family head who preferred inventing dish-washing machines to securing a livelihood for his family. The large supporting cast includes Aline MacMahon, stage star who scored a personal hit as Edward G. Robinson's secretary in "Five Star Final," and Anna Appel, prominent New York actress.

"The Heart of New York" was directed by Mervyn LeRoy, youngest of Hollywood's great directors, who has to his credit such achievements as "Five Star Final," "Little Caesar," "Local Boy Makes Good" and "High Pressure." LeRoy brings to "The Heart of New York" several directorial departures which reflect his ability to keep pace with public requirements.

The original play, "Mendel, Inc.," brought a new type of drama to the stage which has been transposed to the screen with complete fidelity in "The Heart of New York." The story is more dramatic than comic, comedy, however, playing a prominent part in the progress of the drama. "The Heart of New York" contains the pathos of New York's East Side life, lightened by the comic incidents which occur to real people. The picture is essentially a dramatic study of how the "four million" live, using the Mendel family as the focal point for plot development.

Dr. Hotchkiss was notified by Dean Carl Hubert of the graduate school of the University of Michigan that the executive board of the school had recommended Mr. Pepin to the regents for the honor. One such fellowship is awarded annually to a graduate of each state supported college in Michigan. It carries a considerable stipend and also remission of tuition fees.

Mr. Pepin has been prominent in campus activities at Michigan Tech, from which he will receive the degree of bachelor of science in metallurgy in June. He is a member of two national honorary fraternities, Tau Nu Tau, military fraternity, and Tau Beta Pi, whose members are engineering students selected on the basis of scholarship and extra-curricular activity. Ruth Nichols Is Women's Council Air Ambassador

Ruth Nichols, society girl flier, who holds three women's world records in aviation, will start from New York City April 16 on a 3,000-mile goodwill flight for the National Council of Women. She goes as air ambassador for 5,000,000 women in organizations connected with the Council who are cooperating in plans for an International Congress of Women in Chicago in 1933.

On her itinerary are Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kansas City, Omoha, Des Moines and Chicago. Each of these cities is engaged in a campaign to secure signatures to petitions addressed to foreign governments asking them to send distinguished representatives to the Congress. One million signatures is the goal of the nationwide effort in which these cities are taking part.

Miss Nichols will arrive in each city at the height of the signature campaign, make a personal appeal for support of the Congress, collect the signatures which have been accumulated and carry them away by plane.

City-wide committees of clubwomen, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and famous women fliers are cooperating in plans for her entertainment.

"We hope to secure the support of the united womanhood of America for the coming Congress," says Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, president of the National Council of Women, in announcing plans for Miss Nichols' flight. "We consider the 5,000,000 women in the 24 organizations connected with the Council a super-committee cooperating in the task. Miss Nichols is one of our members and has a keen interest in the project because she believes such a Congress will go far towards creating friendly understanding among the women of the world."

Miss Nichols will be away from New York approximately two weeks, returning April 28, Miss Phillips announced.

Solo flights of the character she is now attempting are no novelty to Miss Nichols. In 1929 she made a similar flight of 12,000 miles, visiting 90 cities in 46 states without making a single forced landing.

Recently Miss Nichols was awarded the 1931 women's flying championship of the United States by the Ligue Internationale des Aviateurs. She holds the world altitude record for women, made March 6, 1931, when she reached a height of 28,743 feet; the world speed record for women, 210.65 miles per hour and the world long distance record for women, with a non-stop flight from Oakland, California, to Louisville, Kentucky. She is vice president of the Women's International Aeronautical Association, the purpose of which is to promote goodwill through aviation.

Favorite Recipe
Betty Ann

Gladstone Reader, whose recipes have often delighted Betty Ann readers, sends a pudding recipe which she planned herself. Her letter follows:

"Dear Betty Ann—I was asked Sunday for a recipe for steamed shredded wheat biscuit pudding. I had never heard of a recipe for this but decided to try it and I am sending you my recipe.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit Pudding

One-half biscuit for each person.
Scalded one-half cup of milk for each one-half biscuit.
One egg to each cup of milk.
Three tablespoons of sugar for each portion.
One-half cup dark syrup for whole four portions.
One cup raisins.
One-half cup nut meats.
Pinch salt.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
Dash of nutmeg.

Steam for one and one-half hours in four one-pound baking powder cans and serve with whipped cream.

Gladstone Reader."

Gladstone Reader adds that this pudding was good and was a change from the ordinary pudding, and suggests that possibly some other reader may have receipes for this pudding which they send to the department and which she may try.

A request from a Navarino, Wis., reader is for meat cooked with barbecue sauce. If you have a recipe in answer to this will you call the Betty Ann department, 693, or send your recipe to the Press office?

Mrs. William Kempton and Mrs. Rose Hayward of Chicago, William, Peter and Michael Nowac and Casper Kasten of Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. August Wagner and Miss Helen Jane Wagner of Two Rivers, Wis., are spending a few days here at the home of Mrs. Jennie Dufresne, having been called by the death of Mrs. Walter Dufresne.

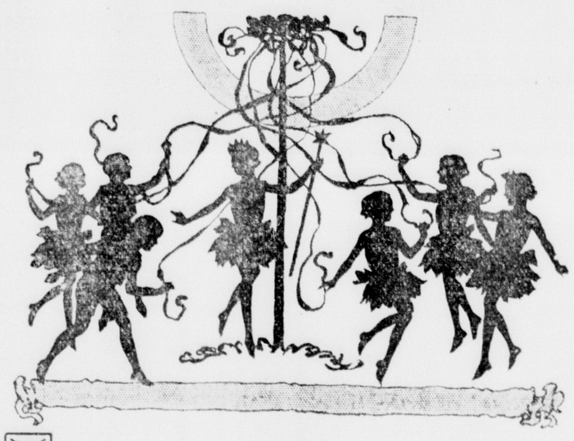
For A May Day Party



When you are planning the food for your May Day party outdoors, you want it to be as novel and pleasing to the happy little girl who is Queen of the May, and to her guests, as the surprised little flowers which are peeping out at the new spring. Why not try a new sort of sandwich which is easy to make, nutritious and easily digested? Here is one:

Pineapple and Nut Sandwiches—Mix well together two cream cheeses, one-fourth cup drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-fourth cup chopped salted almonds, and spread between thinly sliced and buttered graham bread. Make in required quantities, and be sure to save the syrup from the pineapple to use in a fruit drink.

By going to a little more trouble you can make the following dainty sandwiches which will delight the winsome little Queen of the May.

Three Layer Sandwiches—Simmer together one cup of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-fourth cup sugar and two tabelspoons lemon juice until the mixture is thick. Cool. Cut whole wheat or brown bread in very thing slices, butter and spread with softened and seasoned cream cheese. Cover with another slice of bread and butter, and spread with the pineapple mixture. Again cover with buttered bread, and cut into narrow fingers.

The acids of pineapple turn alkaline in the body, and its enzyme bromelin content is an aid to digestion, so there will be no aftermath of indigestion to your May Day party if you serve these sandwiches.

Tuberculosis Is Dangerous To Children

Lansing, Mich., April 11—That tuberculosis is one of the most dangerous diseases of childhood is the significant fact brought out by Dr. Henry C. Chadwick in an article appearing in the current issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors, publication of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

"More children and adolescents die from tuberculosis than from any of the other common diseases of childhood," states Dr. Chadwick in disproving the popular notion that the disease usually develops in adult life. "This is because tuberculosis in the primary form produces no characteristic symptoms by which it can be recognized or even suspected, and the changes in the lung are so slight that a physician cannot detect the disease by the usual methods of physical examination."

The only satisfactory means of discovering tuberculosis in children, Dr. Chadwick points out, is through use of the tuberculin skin test followed by X-ray pictures.

Demonstrating the value of these tests in surveys made to date in five Michigan communities, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association has found that between three and four out of each hundred high school students examined have the childhood type tuberculosis. Another one in each hundred is a suspicious case. The adult type tuberculosis has been found in one out of every thousand students.

Interested parents can secure without cost copies of the magazine containing Dr. Chadwick's article by writing to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Lansing. As a special item prepared for the April "Early Diagnosis Campaign," free distribution of the magazine is made possible by funds secured in the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

A Book A Day
By Bruce Catton

Reading "Bright Skin," Julia Peterkin's new novel, is like taking a trip to another planet.

The negroes of the south Atlantic coastal swamps, brought to life faithfully and with sure artistry in this book, are alien in more than the color of their skin, many miles of space and many years of time—a lost tribe that took a strange fork in the road somewhere and worked out its own salvation on a by-path, unnoticed by the rest of society.

Julia Peterkin

The plot of the story is simple. Blue, a young boy, goes to live with his grandparents when his father and mother break up their home. There he comes to manhood, meets the "bright skin" girl, Cricket, falls in love with her, marries her and is, at last, deserted by her.

That is all there is to it—on the surface. But Mrs. Peterkin makes this plain, unadorned tale touch your heart profoundly, so that it becomes not just the story of some ignorant southern negroes but a legend to embody the loneliness and the heartaches of all human beings everywhere.

The perpetually unsatisified heart-hungry of Blue, the restless way in which the bright-skin girl Cricket yearns for a glimpse beyond the horizon, the pathetic bewilderment of the ragged pickaninny who falls afoul of a callous policeman on his trip to town—these are things in which we all share. They are true for us and of us.

What I am trying to say, in brief, is that "Bright Skin" is an exceptionally fine novel.

Custom rules that a Korean, passing his wife on the street, must ignore her as though she were a stranger.

Lacemaking Art May Be Revived

Rennes, France (AP)—Breton unemployed women are being urged to revive the ancient Breton lacework and hand embroidery art, which has almost died in the last quarter century.

In 1899, there were 30,000 women in Brittany who earned their living at the family fireside by making laces and embroidery.

Their art was much appreciated in Paris, New York and London.

Machines killed the industry, but now that unemployment is stealing its way into the country of these faithful folk they are thinking of going back to the old hand ways.

MONEY LENDER ON POOR LIST

Gladstone Man Arrested For Obtaining Aid Without Cause

Pleading poverty, Conrad Newman, Gladstone, in September, 1930, was placed on the poor list of the county and each month since that time has received approximately $15.00 in poor orders. Saturday he was arrested on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney Glenn W. Jackson on a charge of securing aid by misrepresentation. When arraigned in the court of Justice A. D. Alguire, he admitted that his claims to destitution were unfounded and arranged to make restitution of the funds given him by the county in addition to costs of prosecution. The amount to be repaid is $265.91.

Newman's arrest and prosecution followed an investigation of the prosecuting attorney, who learned that a back compensation claim of $1,837.44 had been paid to Newman in December, 1931. Newman was injured several years ago and for many months drew compensation. When compensation was stopped, he turned his claim over to a firm of attorneys, who collected the sum paid to him in December. Besides the back pay, he was awarded partial disability claim of $2.30 weekly.

After the original compensation payments ceased, Newman appealed to the county for aid, and his crippled condition made it a simple matter to secure assistance. When he appeared before the commission in January of this year, however, he neglected to advise them that he had received the money from his compensation claim.

Upon his arraignment in court, Newman attempted to show that he had paid out all of the money received for attorney fees and doctor's bills, but upon examination by Prosecutor Jackson, he admitted that he had made a loan of $500.00 to an Escanaba man. The note covering this loan was turned over to the county as security for the repayment of the amount he had secured in poor relief.

Work Is Resumed On The Ford Farm

Work on the Ford farm near Gladstone was resumed yesterday when a crew of eighteen men started burning the brush which had been cleared from 360 acres of the tract. The work is being carried on under the direction of Wm. Dixon, who had charge of the clearing operations during the fall months.

It is expected that the burning operations will take from three to four weeks, after which the clearing operations will be resumed. Brush remains to be cut on about 120 acres of the land contained in the tract and stumps are to be pulled on 368 acres. Tractors are used in the stump pulling operations.

When work ceased in January a crew of 100 men were employed in the clearing operations and this number will again be used when the work of clearing gets under way.

The general plan of the Ford company is to clear, drain and landscape the land, with the ultimate purpose in view of plotting it in small tracts for use by employees of the plant to be established in Gladstone.

The land, which lies along the Escanaba river, is considered ideal for gardening. The soil is a deep black muck with a sand subsoil. Drainage will not be difficult.

He pointed two guns at me. I took them away from him and hit him."

Three New Maps Of City Are Made

Three new maps of the city of Gladstone have recently been completed by the engineering department. Each map has been designed for a specific purpose. One covers the sewer system of the city, one the water system and the third is an assessor's map, showing all the new additions, the lots and numbers, street names and other information of value in making assessments.

The sewer and water system maps are made on a scale of 200 feet to the inch. The sewer map gives information concerning the size of pipe, location of manholes, and location of laterals. The water map shows size of pipe, location of valves, fire plugs, etc., and makes available all information needed concerning the system. Both maps are brought up to date.

The assessors map is made up in 17 sections, each section being 12x14 inches in size and containing a portion of the city approximately 240 acres. These will be made up in book form for the convenience of the assessor and other city departments.

Change To Fast Time On May 1

Gladstone will return to Eastern Standard Time May 1, without action of the City Commission as the result of a resolution passed on September 19, of last year. The resolution provides that the official time of the city shall be Central Time from the last Saturday in September until the last Saturday in April, and the official time of the state, which has been fixed as Eastern Standard by an act of the legislature.

The action was taken by the commission in order to settle the time question permanently and avoid the annual turmoil that resulted from the question of fast time during the summer months. Similar action was taken by Escanaba and Manistique.

The clocks in the territory are to be turned ahead at midnight on April 30.

THEATRES

In addition to the actual running of the English Derby, the most famous event in the world of racing, "Devil's Lottery," Fox production, starring Elissa Landi, which opens today at the Rialto Theatre, is said to contain many scenes of equal interest to racing fans.

One of these scenes shows the various groups of fortune telling gypsies, so characteristic of Derby Day, in sharp contrast to the members of royalty and the "smart people" arriving in coaches and drags. Another shows the bookies at work and the tipsters plying their trade.

Victor MacLaglen, Alexander Kirkland, Paul Cavanagh and Beryl Mercer also featured in "Devil's Lottery" which Sam Taylor directed.

COMISH NAMES BUSHONG MAYOR

Hawkins Named on County Board; Goodman, Mayor Pro Tem

J. P. Bushong, vice president of the Northwestern Cooperage and Lumber company, was elected mayor of Gladstone to succeed himself at the organization meeting of the City Commission last night. Upon the election of Mayor Bushong, the commission proceeded to select August Goodman as mayor pro tem and appointed Claude Hawkins to membership on the County Board of Supervisors. In each instance the commissioners named succeeded themselves.

With the appointment of Commissioner Hawkins to the county board, the representation will remain the same as during the past year. Under the charter it is mandatory that the mayor and assessor be members of the county board and Commissioner Peter Peterson continues on the board by virtue of an appointment for three years made a year ago. Eric Johnson, city assessor, will be retained in that capacity, it has been indicated.

Following the selection of officers for the coming year the commission disposed of routine matters of the city.

New York, April 11 (AP)—Stocks swung back into the decline today as investigation of market affairs by the senate banking committee began at Washington.

Volume, at 1,684,244 shares, was somewhat smaller than in some of last week's declines, but offerings found the market poorly padded and the session ended with 90 stocks averaging at a new low, fractionally under last Friday's minimum. Declines of 1 to 7 points in active issues more than cancelled gains made on Saturday.

The senatorial inquiry apparently had little, if any, effect on the day's trading. Brokers said that short selling, in the face of the senatorial inquiry, was a negligible factor and that the market's chief trouble was the same liquidation which Mr. Whitney stressed as the source of recent selling in principal issues. Wheat's strength encouraged a mild rally around mid-afternoon, but late weakness in rails robbed the recovery of any momentum and final prices were close to the bottom.

Break in Rails

Few leaders, at one time or another, failed to make new lows. U. S. Steel dropped to 33, recovered most of its loss and then eased back to 33 5-8, down 1 1-8. American Can sold under 50 for the first time in this bear market and was a couple of points lower at the finish. Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, American Tobacco "B," People's Gas and Auburn were 2 or more lower. Food shares met little support, especially National Biscuit which had the unusually large extreme drop of 3⅜. Market gossip says that food company's earnings were not so "depression proof" in the first quarter of this year.

There was nothing to account for the late break in rails, which carried Santa Fe down more than 7 to 45 1-8. New York Central closed at 20, off 2. Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio sagged about 1. Utilities were generally friendless. American Telephone held fractionally above the old minimum and at the afternoon rally's top had virtually made up a loss of 2¾, but it was down 2 net at 106.

President Hindenburg's strength at the polls created a favorable impression here, even though his victory had been taken as a matter of course since the preliminary balloting. However, European skies have been clouded somewhat, bankers feel, by failure of the Danubian conference which disclosed differences that some quarters feel may prove hard to reconcile. With expiration of the moratorium year only a couple of months or so away Wall Street would like to be assured that definite solutions of pressing problems were at hand.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, April 11—Bounding upward almost 4 cents a bushel today, wheat held the full advance in the face of a world of selling to realize profits.

Sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas reported that 50 percent of the winter wheat crop had been damaged beyond recovery, with Nebraska losses estimated at 40 percent. On top of this was a decrease of 4,434,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total, almost twice as much as at this time last year.

Wheat closed buoyant at the day's tiptop point, the highest level touched in about a month, 3 1-8 to 3 3-4 cents over Saturday's finish, with corn 3-8 to 3-4 up, oats 3-8 to ½ advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 2 to 7 cents.

Liquidating sales of corn carried that cereal temporarily to within ¼ cent of the season's low price record, but wheat strength acted later as more than a counterbalance. Oats followed corn.

Provisions responded to grain price upturns notwithstanding late setbacks in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 57 3-4 to 7-8, 61 3-8 to ½; July, 60 5-8 to 3-4, 64½ to 5-8; September, 62 7-8 to 63, 66 3-4 to 67. Corn—May, 33 5-8 to 3-4, 35 to 35 1-8; July, 37¼, 30 5-8 to 3-4; September 39 3-4, 41 1-8.

Utility Stocks On Curb Show Better Tone, Fewer Sales

New York, April 11 (AP)—A firmer tone appeared in some of the curb's utility stocks late today, but although a few favored issues managed to close higher the general list maintained a rather heavy tone. Volume, approximating 270,000 shares, was well under last Friday's turnover.

Electric Bond and Share, after an early dip to within a fraction of the old low, met last hour support and sold a point net higher. Reactionary tendencies in the final dealings reduced the gain, however, to nominal size. The company's preferred stocks improved more than 3 points net.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was an outstanding soft spot during a market-wide sag in the forenoon. At its bottom this stock was 5 points off, but the loss was cut to about 2. Columbia Gas & Electric preferred tumbled 7. On the other hand, United Gas preferred and the Standard Power & Light issues gained 2 each.

Cities Service rallied briskly in the late afternoon, and closed at 5, or half a point higher. Specialties were erratic.

MONEY RATES
New York, April 11—Call money steady, 2½ percent all day.
Time loans steady; 60 days, 2 3-4 to 3; 3 to 6 months, 2 3-4 to 3 percent.
Prime commercial paper, 3 3-4 to 4.
Bankers' acceptances, unchanged; 30 days, 2 to 1; 60 to 90 days, 2 to 1 7-8; 4 months, 2 1-8 to 2; 5 to 6 months, 2 3-8 to 2¼.

Ice Gives Up In Battle With Wind

Wintry winds brought a sign of spring to Escanaba Monday. They whipped up a current which started to carry out the ice in Bay de Noc. The outer bay was cleared Monday morning as far back as lighthouse point, and open water was seen along the south shore. Farther back, weak spots were appearing, and a number of fishermen have abandoned their fishing shanties left on the bay. The ice averages around seven inches here, and is water-soaked and honeycombed.

Court Postponed

Iron Mountain—Because Judge Frank A. Bell has been advised that he will be required to be in Detroit on judiciary business for one week beginning April 18, the regular jury term of circuit court in this county scheduled to open on that date has been postponed one week, and jurors have been notified to appear Tuesday morning, April 26, according to W. S. Cudlip, county clerk.

xx—Previous 1932 low.

New York, April 11 (AP)—All classes of bonds continued to subside today, although trading became duller than usual with wide gaps apparent between the majority of bids and offers.

Even the United States government list, after advancing continuously for a number of days, reacted moderately under fairly heavy profit taking. Five of the federal loans, however, again reached new highs for the year before deciding to take a breathing spell.

The railroads bore the brunt of today's liquidation. Some of the low-priced carrier liens attempted feeble rallies at various times, but most of them were unable to hold their gains. Losses in the rails averaged from 1 to 3 points.

There were a number of scattered breaks in the utilities and industrials.

U. P. Briefs

Cyclone Recalled

Sault Ste. Marie—Probably none in the Sault remembers the day 78 years ago today when a cyclone struck the village, carrying away debris and overturning houses. Severe lightning and high winds were responsible for some of the destruction. The story of the great storm used to be told by John McDougall Johnston and Thomas Ryan, old pioneers.

They said a dog was picked up near the present location of the Soo Woolen Mills and carried as far as Little Rapids without injury.

Judge Charles H. Chapman, who is fond of recalling dates, says that 67 years ago today General Lee surrendered to General Grant and the Civil War was ended.

Flophouse is Red

Sault Ste. Marie—The community "flop" house is $150 in the red, and Cammie Moore, proprietor, manager, janitor, purchasing agent and financier of the institution issued an appeal today to citizens of Sault St. Marie to make donations of cash so that the budget may be balanced and the house closed on April 24.

Mr. Moore said that during the first three months of operation of his community house he served 10,523 meals. The total cost to date has been $319, of which $168.94 has been paid, and bills for $150 for food and hardware remain.

Will Run Again

Iron Mountain—John Daprato, Dickinson county representative in the state legislature, will be a candidate for re-election in the fall primary, according to information received from him by a friend, Joseph Bolognesi, proprietor of the Milano cafe, 114 East Brown street.

Mr. Daprato, who is now attending the special session of the legislature in Lansing, asked Mr. Bolognesi, according to the latter, to make his announcement for him. This action was taken by the representative in view of reports that he might not be a candidate for re-election because of his health. Within the last week, however, Mr. Daprato has sent a message here asserting that not only is his health good, but he is regularly attending to his business at the legislative session.

Opinion Divided

Stambaugh-Caspian-Iron River—Divided sentiment is heard on all sides on the proposal that the five west side communities, Gaastra, Caspian, Mineral Hills, Stambaugh and Iron River, consolidate as one city.

A survey shows it is claimed, that consolidation will result in lower taxes and more efficient government, but that the vast differences in assessed valuation and population would be a great obstacle to hurdle.

Reduced costs of government and a population of between 11,000 and 12,000 persons which would make it a ranking city in the upper peninsula are reasons for prompting leaders to give impetus to the movement.

sagely, "ever moaned like that unless she thought she was in love." Susan summoned the ghost of a smile, shaking her head in denial. Ray's unwinking stare met hers incredulously.

"I know the symptoms," Ray went on, looking wise, "and take it from me, kid, it isn't worth it." Warming to her subject she perched on the nearest desk and continued, "Love's a lot of hooey. It's all right in the movies but what I say is, leave it there." Susan laughed. She couldn't help it. Ray, with her dandelion head, her pretty face made up in what Aunt Jessie would have thought shameless fashion, Ray being philosophical, was really too funny!

"I'm telling you," Ray pursued the subject with relish. "Mamma says to me, she says, 'Don't you be going off and getting married like all these crazy kids in Edgewater, without a penny to their names.' Mamma says 'have a good time while you're young. You're only young once'." Again Susan's wan smile answered her.

"No fooling," Ray assured her. "It's the bunk. They all step out, maybe to Crown Point or St. Joe or somewheres, and first thing you know they're having a baby and you see them pushing the buggy up and down Sheridan Road on Sunday afternoon and looking like they'd cut each other's throats for a nickel."

Her description was so painfully apt that Susan giggled. Ray had taken out her make-up kit and had begun meticulously to rub more raspberry colored salve into lips already flaming. Susan watched her, fascinated. For one wild moment her impulse was to confide in Ray. Surely this knowing little creature could tell her how to handle Denise Ackroyd. But some reserve held Susan silent.

"Boss gone?" Ray asked, glancing around casually. Susan said he was.

"That's swell." Ray approved. "He's a pill if you ask me. The kind that goes around with his nose in the air."

Susan frowned faintly. "He's been very kind to me," she said.

Ray sniffed. "What I always say is, I like a fellow with a little life in him. Some one," here she lowered her shrill voice ever so little, "some one like Jack Waring."

Susan was putting on her hat in front of the mirror and so she did not hear the soft football behind her and was utterly taken by surprise when two warm hands clamped themselves over her eyes. But she recognized the mocking voice saying, "Who takes my name in vain?" Scarlet, confused, she turned to find herself within arm's length of that philanderer, Jack Waring, himself.

BEN LEONARD BEATS BUSTER

Former Champion Struts Stuff in Big Way At New York

New York, April 11 (AP)—Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, continued his comeback campaign at the St. Nicholas arena tonight by handing Buster Brown of Baltimore a neat trouncing in ten rounds. Leonard weighed 151 pounds, Brown 145½.

Leonard still showed a distressing tendency to trip over his own feet but he had no trouble at all outpointing Brown by a wide margin.

After a shaky first round, Benny took eight of the last nine rounds, Brown succeeding in holding the veteran even in the fourth.

Absorbs Punishment

Leonard started slowly and Brown piled into him with a body attack that drove Benny around the ring. But Leonard took command of the situation in the second round, backed the Baltimore boy to the ropes and belabored him with both hands to the body and staggered him with a right uppercut to the jaw later in the round.

Brown resumed his body attack early in the third round but the former lightweight champion easily outboxed him. Midway through this round, Leonard, trying to evade one of Brown's rushes, tripped and fell to the canvas.

The fourth round was evenly fought as they traded body punches without much damage either way. Leonard had Brown in bad shape with lefts and rights to the body and head in the fifth and earned the round by a wide margin although he again stumbled and slipped to the floor.

Brown took considerable punishment through the next five rounds but Leonard could not floor him. The Baltimore welterweight was staggered by healthy rights that clipped him on the jaw in the seventh and eighth but Benny could not finish him.

BOXING

Pittsburgh, April 11 (AP)—Ted Yarosz, Monaca welterweight, outpointed the veteran Vincent Hambright of Cincinnati and New York, in 10 slow-motion rounds tonight.

Yarosz scaled in at 149½; Hambright weighed 146.

Mose Butch, 121, of Pittsburgh, topped Lew Franklin, 114½, of Philadelphia with a clean left to the chin in the third round of an eight-round semi-final.

ABC TOURNEY COMES TO END

Escanaba Bowlers Fail To Connect for High Marks at Detroit

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Charley Daw and Frank Benkovic, of Milwaukee, are the 1932 doubles champions of the American Bowling Congress.

They, with the other minor events leaders, survived the final assault of aspiring bowlers in the thirty-second renewal of the congress tournament this afternoon. The doubles title is worth $500 and a diamond medal apiece. The winning score was 1,358.

Otto Nitschke, of Cleveland, who hit 731, is the singles champion. Hughie Stewart, of Cincinnati, whose aggregate of 1,980 for nine games was high by seven pins, won the all-events title. Nitschke's victory was good for $300, while Stewart won $170. Each also will receive a diamond medal emblematic of ten-pin supremacy.

The Jefferson Clothiers, of Dayton, O., won the five-man team title last night with a score of 3,108.

There were two changes among the top-notchers in today's bowling. Pete Necker and Urban Vine, Buffalo, blasted their way into a tie with E. Scott and E. Kraft, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for tenth place in the doubles with a score of 1,285 on games of 382, 473 and 430. Necker had a 717 on games of 221, 268 and 228. Vine scored 161, 205 and 202 for a 567 total.

Harry Dickey, Allentown, Pa., tied Eddie Krems, of Chicago, for tenth place in the singles with a 700 series. Dickey had games of 192, 232, 276.

Eleven men hit 700 or better in the solo event, a record in A. B. C. history only to the 1929 tournament when 12 bowlers reached that mark.

DETROIT WILL MEET INDIANS

Cardinals Have Lost Two Of Most Valuable Players

BY ALAN GOULD
(Ass'd Press Sports Editor)

New York, April 11 (AP)—A series of eleventh hour developments today, all calculated to have a distinct bearing on the pennant races from the outset, marked the preparations of major league baseball clubs for the general opening ceremonies, scheduled tomorrow in eight cities under dubious weather conditions.

While a cold wave blew into the middle west and a rainstorm swept the east, the world champion Cardinals handed the dopesheets another jolt by trading the National league batting king, Chick Hafey, to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Pitcher Bennie Frey and Harvey Hendrick, an all-around handy man.

Exceptional Outfield

Thus it appears all holdout trails lead down the river to Cincinnati's outfield. Hafey will join an ex-teammate, Taylor Douthit, fleet centerfielder who used to worry the Cardinal frontoffice, and Babe Herman, recalcitrant Brooklyn slugger who figured in the year's biggest player swap last month.

Together they give the Reds one of the strongest outfields in either big league and increase the prospect that last season's eighth-place outfit will be a sensational factor in the 1932 race.

The Cardinals now face exceptionally strong challenges, minus two of the biggest cogs in their championship machine — Hafey and Burleigh Grimes. It remains to be seen whether the world champions can offset the loss of these stars by getting pitching results from new men like Frey, Carleton and Dean and finding an outfield punch in the bats of Jim Collins or Ray Pepper, the latest acquisition from the champion Rochester Internationals.

Meanwhile one of the Cardinals' chief rivals, the Chicago Cubs, must start the season without Elwood English, star shortstop, out with a broken finger, while another contender, Brooklyn, tires the veteran George Kelly on first base to fill the gap caused by the disablement of Del Bissonette.

Over in the American league camps, starting lineups also were affected by late developments.

Washington's star shortstop and cleanup hitter, Joe Cronin, was not sufficiently recovered from an attack of tonsilitis to get into the opening game against Boston.

Detroit, apparently dissatisfied withthe condition of Dale Alexander, slugging first baseman, sent a hurry call for Harry Davis of Toronto to take over this job in the opening tussle with Cleveland tomorrow.

The New York Yankees, since coming back to the big town, have shaken up their lineup for the opening skirmish of their pennant battle with the Athletics at Philadelphia. Sammy Byrd, due to his sensational spring hitting, was picked to replace the veteran Earle Combs in center. The infield was due to start with Lyn Lary at shortstop, the position he played last year, and his spring place at third taken over by the spectacular recruit, Frank Crosetti.

Although weather prospects have upset calculations, including hopes for record turnouts, more than 200,000 fans are expected to witness the eight games listed tomorrow. The outlook was good for overcoats and furs in the middle west, with clear but cold weather moving into this territory. It was raining today in most of the big league towns, from Detroit eastward ,with one storm blowing in to replace another going out in a northeasterly direction.

Despite the unsettled conditions, capacity crowds were anticipated for at least two openings, with 40,000 expected for the Brooklyn-Boston game in Ebbets field and the headliner between the Athletics and Yankees at Shibe park. Fans in Cincinnati, where the spring trade winds have blown almost an entire new cast into town, also figured to jam Redland field for the opener with the Chicago Cubs.

Campbell Hopes To Break Speed Mark

London, April 11 (AP)—Not satisfied with the world's automobile speed record he set at 253.968 miles per hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., this spring, Sir Malcolm Campbell hopes to boost the mark within a year.

He announced plans today for installing in his famous racing car, Bluebird, an engine of the same type as won the Schneider airplane trophy at 340 M. P. H. and set up a world's record of 407 M. P. H. last autumn.

He reckons the new engine will develop 2500 horsepower, compared with 1500 horsepower of the engine with which he set the new auto record.

TAKE HEAVY ROLES IN BIG SHOW

These men will play important parts in the 1932 major league baseball campaigns. Gibson and Carey are new managers, of the Pirates and Brooklyns, respectively, and Fonseca is the new chief of the Chicago White Sox. Much depends upon Burleigh Grimes, pitcher traded by the Cards to the Cubs, in the National League, and upon Al Simmons, whose potent bat has helped the Athletics to win three straight championships in the American League.

DEMO LEADERS OPPOSE BONUS

Hoover Finds Support in Declaration Against Cash Payment

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Democratic leaders in congress today pooled their strength with administration forces in a determined effort to block cash payment of the soldiers bonus.

Representative Rainey, the Democratic house leader, listened to bonus advocates urge before the ways and means committee an issue of new currency to make the $2,400,000,000 payment. He then assailed the plan as "uneconomic, unsound and destructive."

Almost simultaneously Senator Robinson, party leader in the senate, declared himself unequivocably against the bonus.

These statements, coming after President Hoover's threat of a veto, cemented the leadership of both parties at the capitol against the bonus movement.

The house committee began hearings on the issue today. Three spokesmen for the bonus based their plea on the need of currency "reflation" in restoring prosperity. They were Representative Patman (D. Tex.), former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma and Representative Connery (D. Mass.).

Currency Expansion

Patman definitely placed the case of bonus advocates on a currency expansion basis, saying emphatically "That we feel a bond issue will be a detriment." He added:

"Unless we can show that the payment will benefit the country and promote the general welfare, we are not entitled to have this bill pass. The question is can this payment be used to bring the country back to prosperity.

"One of the main reasons for passing this legislation is the reflation feature. We are hopeful that it will put enough money into circulation so that commodity prices will rise and prosperity return.

"We don't expect to start on a wild program of inflation. I don't believe this amount is too much. The question in my mind is whether it is enough."

Owen, who headed the senate banking committee when the federal reserve law was drafted, took the same position. He said gold was not important in considering the issue because "we are no longer on a gold basis; the American dollar is based on commodities."

Instead of treasury notes, as favored by Patman, Owen preferred the issuance of federal reserve bills backed by government bonds.

"The bonus payment would compel a rise in commodity prices," Owen said. "It is the way to restore prosperity. You are not going to do it with measures like the reconstruction finance corporation.

"The only way to increase values and put the country back to normal is by restoring the currency and putting money into circulation, and there is no more equable way than through these soldiers who are scattered throughout the country."

FOUR ACCUSED AS MURDERERS

body was stopped while it was dashing toward the wild waters about Koko Head, near the outskirts of the city.

Ulii testified he had gone to the judiciary building with Kahahawai January 8, the day of the tragedy. The latter there made his daily report pending retrial on charges of participating with four other men in an attack on Mrs. Massie, wife of the lieutenant and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

Tells of Capture

The witness pointed out Albert O. Jones, one of the two accused enlisted men, as the person who handed Kahahawai a spurious warrant by which the abductors gained their end. Jones arose and gazed unflinchingly at Ulii.

The latter previously had named the abductors as Mrs. Fortescue, Massie and Edward J. Lord, the fourth defendant. He said Massie wore a false mustache.

As Ulii pointed Mrs. Fortescue as the woman in the abduction car she did not look up.

William Dickson, part Hawaiian court clerk to whom Kahahawai had been reporting as probation officer, said Mrs. Fortescue had come to his office a few days before the killing and learned that the young Hawaiian was coming there daily.

The futile race of the death car toward Kolo Head, from where Kahahawai's body could have been thrown to the strong tides and the sharks, was described by Von Arnswald, who told how he had stopped the machine and found the body.

Less than two weeks ago, he said, 200 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph company stock was sold on a "seller contract" at less than the prevailing prices. It was followed by another sale still lower.

Further investigation, he testified, indicated "collusion" and the partnership was dissolved.

OUTDOOR ARENA BEING ERECTED

Outdoor Stadium Under Construction, Will Seat 80,000

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, April 11 (AP)—Purely by accident Madison Square Garden announced today it is erecting an outdoor fight stadium, seating 80,000 and costing $500,000 in Long Island City.

Although the Garden, largest organization in the prize fight business, leased several acres of ground across the Queensboro bridge on Long Island last week for a period of 15 years and immediately let contracts for building the most perfect of outdoor arenas, the project has been kept a deep secret.

The contractor was not told it was secret, however, and this morning there appeared on the property a huge sign, announcing that an arena was in the process of building and would be dedicated with the world heavyweight championship 15-round match between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey on June 16.

A reporter, passing on the way to work, saw the sign and the news immediately was broadcast. Within two hours the Garden had mustered what was left of the original "600 Millionaires" club. Mayor James J. Walker and George Harvey, borough president of Queens, were summoned, and ground was broken with appropriate ceremonies.

Leasing of the ground and start of the construction work carries out plans formulated for such an arena as far back as the days of the late Tex Rickard, who built the present $5,000,000 plant of Madison Square Garden.

The new arena will be only ten or fifteen minutes ride from the center of the city by subway, and has parking space enough to accommodate 5,000 automobiles.

Heretofore, the Garden has leased for outdoor boxing matches two major league baseball parks, and, it is estimated, has paid rental of almost $1,000,000.

Waives Examination On Burglary Charge

Marquette, Mich., April 11 (AP)—Oscar Larson, 19, waived examination on charge of burglary when arraigned today in municipal court and was bound over for trial at the May term of circuit court. He was unable to furnish $500 bond. Larson was arrested by city police after he is alleged to have robbed a till in a shoe repair shop of $4.50 Saturday night.

Nearly 3,000,000 gaily painted Chinese paper umbrellas have been exported from Hong Kong in the last 12 months.

Hoover Tosses Out First Ball to Start 10-Inning Battle

BY F. G. VOSBURGH
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Baseball put on one of its finest shows—an extra-inning pitcher's battle—to usher in the 1932 major league season today before the nation's chief executive and first lady.

For the first time in the four years Herbert Hoover as President has been tossing out a new white ball for the inaugural game the Washington team won its opening start, overcoming the Boston Red Sox, 1 to 0, in the tenth on a walk followed by a rousing double from the big bat of Heinie Manush.

Through inning after inning the rival righthanders — Danny MacFayden for Boston and Alvin "Growler" for the Senators—battled on even terms with both teams giving mid-season support on a diamond damp and slow from recent rains.

Washington Scores

An exciting moment came in the fifth, when Pickering, the Boston third sacker, doubled and Van Camp, first baseman, sacrificed. Fast fielding of Oliver's grounder by Bluege and a quick throw cut off Pickering at the plate. It was the nearest Boston came to a score.

The Red Sox combined two singles in the tenth, but Growder ended the rally by fanning MacFayden on three straight pitches.

MacFayden appeared to be weakening as the Senators came up and Myer drew a walk. Then big Manush put his shoulders into a terrific two base drive to right. Myer scampered around from first and crossed the plate with the run that put Walter Johnson's club off to a flying start.

Kilbourne Kayoes Another Opponent

Chicago, April 11 (AP)—Jack Kilbourne, Australian middleweight, scored the fourth straight victory of his American invasion at White City by knocking out Haakon Hansen of Norway after two minutes and 10 seconds of fighting in the first round.

Kilbourne floored Hansen with a right cross to the chin and the Norwegian attempted to come back only to fall down and out at the count of ten. The Australian weighed 160 and Hansen 156.

In the preliminaries, Costas Vaflis, Greek middleweight champion, outpointed the veteran Shuffle Callahan of Chicago in a five rounder and Pete Wistort, Chicago, knocked out Biff Bennett, the fighting soldier from Fort Sheridan, in the fourth round with a right uppercut.

BRUNELLE GRID SQUAD REPORTS

Only Five Linemen Will Be Lost to Squad By Graduation

Despite a cold wind, approximately 70 candidates answered the call of Coach Leo Brunelle of St. Joseph spring football practice at the Ludington park yesterday afternoon.

The workout yesterday was a snappy one but consisted mainly of calisthenic work and acquainting the athletes with the feel of the pigskin.

Coach Brunelle will lose five of his first string linemen by graduation in June but he will have his 1931 backfield intact in addition to a veteran center, Ray Roy, and McGovern, end.

Although Brunelle said he could not be certain just what caliber of a team he would be able to put on the field next September, it was certain that the Parochial coach was optimistic.

The Parochial team is expected to be heavier in 1932 than the 1931 machine which swept through the season without defeat.

WARM SPELL INJURES ROADS

Report of U. P. Highway Conditions Given by Sharpensteen

The recent warm weather has caused an unusually large number of breakups on state trunk line roads in the upper peninsula, J. T. Sharpensteen, division highway engineer, stated yesterday, in giving a report of road conditions.

On account of the small amount of snow during the past winter, Mr. Sharpensteen explained, frost has penetrated deeper than would have been the case with a normal snowfall. At the present time the frost has only partially gone out and the underlying layer of frozen earth is preventing proper drainage. As soon as all the frost has gone beneath the road surface, the water will disappear rapidly and the roads can then be put in satisfactory condition. Until the frost is all gone, little improvement can be expected.

Bad Place at Powers

The different maintenance organizations are making every effort to keep traffic moving. In a number of instances cars are unable to get through without the aid of teams or tractors. On several stretches of road teams and tractors are kept busy 24 hours a day to prevent as little delay and inconvenience to traffic as possible. Reports to date indicate that considerable difficulty is being experienced in maintaining traffic over the following sections of road.

The two temporary routes for US-41 at Powers are causing considerable inconvenience to motorists. Ten teams and a tractor are on duty both night and day pulling cars through the bad stretches. M-69 is impassible from Foster City west to M-45. Through traffic is being warned to use US-2 by the way of Iron Mountain.

Several break ups occurred yesterday on US-2 west of Iron River and traffic is being aided by the use of several teams.

Trouble at Hermansville

Some difficulty was experienced on US-2 in the vicinity of Hermansville yesterday, but only a small stretch of road was involved and repairs have been made to take care of that condition. M-35 south of Ford River has been impassable for the past several days. M-45 from Channing north to the junction of M-28 at Barren Mine is impassable. US-141 started breaking up both east and south of Covington Sunday afternoon and it was found necessary to employ several teams to keep traffic moving Sunday night. M-28 is impassable east of Seney and traffic from Seney to Newberry is being detoured via Germfask. US-41 north of Rapid River and northwest of Trenary, while not impassable, is in a softened condition and traffic is warned to use some other route if possible.

Traffic is experiencing some difficulty on US-41 between Champion and Michigamme on account of unfinished construction at that point. M-48 south of Rudyard is impassible. A temporary route is being marked to take care of traffic. M-35 from Gladstone to Negaunee is in fair condition. Some minor break ups have occurred, but it is believed traffic can be kept moving over this route without difficulty. Reports indicate that US-2 from Escanaba to St. Ignace is in good condition except in the vicinity of Gould City where there have been a few minor break ups. It has not been found necessary as yet to use teams or tractors to aid cars over this section of road.

Teams or tractors will be maintained day and night at all bad spots on through routes where cars are liable to become stalled and while motorists may expect some delay, there is no danger of becoming stranded for any great length of time on the more important trunk lines.

The last census taken in the United States, during 1930, showed 62,137,080 males and 60,637,966 females.

PROTECTION FOR OWNERS OF PROPERTY

In Escanaba as in other places, any person who is unfortunate enough to own property and rents it, has no protection whatsoever from either state or city law.

There are protective measures taken for almost everyone but the people who own and rent property and by this I mean that if the tenant does not choose to he does not have to pay. As a property owner with houses to rent I feel that all such should form a "Property Owners Protective Association" and try to be protected by law as every other legitimate business is and rightfully so.

One pays taxes, insurance and repairs on a house and the tenant kindly informs you that he cannot pay the rent. One tells them that you want the house and give them two weeks to move. At the end of that time they let you know that they haven't found anything that suits them and refuse to move or to pay any rent and all this time other renters are waiting to move in. Then according to law one must serve papers through an officer. Then they have two weeks more to make up their minds to move and can stay longer if they wish.

A person who owns a storage room can hold articles stored or sell them to recover his costs. A boarding house or hotel keeper can hold property for his bill. But the poor sucker who has a house to rent has no redress. We have to wait to regain possession of what we already own and pay all the expenses on it in the interim. Can someone enlighten—

A disgusted house owner.

YOUNG BIKE RIDER CARRIES SPARE

Escanaba has at least one budding inventor, maybe two. Gliding along the sidewalk the other day were two boys, side by side, one on roller skates, the other on a bicycle. All went well until the front tire of the bicycle went flat, and that crippled the motive power of the team. A hurried consultation followed, but the problem wasn't long in reaching a solution. The skater took off his skates, strapped one under the flat front tire, hopped on the handlebars, the cyclist resumed his pedaling, and the team again rolled on its way as a result of the cooperative combination in brain-power and equipment.

Four More Schools Announce Champions

Four more schools of the district have chosen their spelling champions, or pupils who will represent them in the finals at Escanaba on Saturday, April 30. Among them are the Franklin of this city, the first Escanaba school to pick their champion, Fairport, Osier and Woodlawn schools.

Charles James, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. James, 416 South Tenth street, city, won the honor of representing the Franklin school in the grand championship event. Charles is a 5th grader. Second place was won by Thelma Berquist.

At the Fairport school, senior honors were won by Doris Gauthier, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gauthier of Fairport. Doris is in the eighth grade. Catherine Collins, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins of Fairport, a fourth grader, won the junior championship. Second place was won by Dorothy Bennett and third by Telos Rochefort.

Miss Leda Gierke, teacher at Fairport, reports that the bees created a great deal of enjoyment, and enthusiasm ran high among the pupils, all of whom wanted to be champion. On several Fridays at the conclusion of the spelling, cake and chocolate were served helping to make the bees enjoyable occasions.

Senior honors at the Osier school were taken by Alice Potvin, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Lazor Potvin of Osier. Alice, an eighth-grader, won over Helen Gallup and Bernice Potvin, who placed second and third, respectively. Miss Gallup misspelled "administration" while Miss Potvin failed on the word "possession."

Thelma Savage, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Savage of Osier was the junior winner. Thelma is a fourth grader and according to her teacher, Miss Amelia Trottier, an ideal student. She holds a record of having been neither absent nor tardy during the past three years.

Doris Kallman, daughter of Herman Kallman of Cornell is the champion of Woodlawn and will represent her school in the finals. Miss Kallman is an eighth grader.
